J. C. TEACHER TELLS ABOUT YEAR ABROAD

WINNER OF FELLOWSHIP GIVES INTERESTING ACCOUNT OF TRIP

Miss Miriam Gatley, English teacher of the English 10 class, has returned this fall from a year's leave of absence. Last year she was awarded the Fellowship for American Student Research in a specific field and spent her time in Europe studying literature of the Romance Period (1100 A. D. to 1300 A. D.).

Miss Gatley, prominent in local literary circles, sailed from Montreal, Canada, aboard the Cunard liner Athena on August 16 of last year and landed in Liverpool, England.

Bicycle Trips

After a short visit in this most important metropolis of England, she established herself in London, where she remained for the greater part of her months gathering material for her thesis. This part of the trip was very pleasant, for as Miss Gatley explained, she greatly enjoys going together—"and the London fog is superb!"

An occasional bicycle trip about the country side to quaint outlying towns and villages in England and Scotland, and rambles along the Strand added much to the pleasure of this visit, and tended to break the routine of constant study and research.

Meets Friends

Although Miss Gatley was not registered at Oxford, much of her research carried her to that famous college, and to the British Museum. Before leaving for Paris she visited many of her old friends in Great Britain, including: Fitz William at Cambridge, Canterbury at Canterbury, and Exeter at Exeter.

She made several friends from Bakkefield during her stay in Paris, and when time would permit she was "shown about the city." From Paris Miss Gatley travelled to the ancient feudal city of Carcassonne in southern France. Much of this city, including the drawbridge, moat, and castle, is a hangover of the period inquisition in France.

Visits Conference

Following a brief stay in Belgium, Miss Gatley went to Germany to study two ancient books known to be in the library of the famous Heidelberg College, and then to Fribourg and Geneva in Switzerland. In the latter city Miss Gatley was very fortunate in having the opportunity to visit the Democratic Conference and to hear Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald deliver an address on behalf of Great Britain, whom she represented at the conference.

After a visit to many noted places in Italy, she returned to England.

Schools Different

Miss Gatley's thesis was completed and accepted for publication shortly before she sailed for the United States.

Aereopagus Club

Studies Subject of Prohibition

The first regular meeting of the Aereopagus Club, organization for girls interested in Social Science, was held Monday evening, October 3rd, at school. Miss Jane Bellows, president, took charge of the meeting. The new members were acquainted with the constitution and plans for the year, which were presented in a short business meeting followed by a study period.

Prohibition

The first topic to be taken up by the club is prohibition. Discussion is to be carried out in a manner which will present both pro and con phases of the subject. In connection with this study the members plan to attend California Norris' lecture on Prohibition.

A book report on the history and evolution of prohibition was given by Jane Bellows.

To Pelican Island

The members accepted the invitation of the Social Science Club to go on an Indian hunt at Pelican Island next Tuesday. Eleanor Champion, Lucille Jennings, and Esther Bassett were appointed as refreshment committee.

Florence Tieck was selected secretary. The program chairman for the following month is to be Evelyn Schmidt.

Members

Members present were: Kathie Cassidy, Lucille Jennings, Esther Bassett, Eleanor Champion, Marian DeCew, Margaret Hanawalt, Florence Tieck, Margaret Bailey, and Peggy Cooke.

Peggy Cooke is reported to have been appointed a member of the Pelican Island sports committee. The members plan to meet on the island Thursday at noon. The members may take a plane excursion to various points in the interior of Florida.

Victoria Achin New President of W. A. A.

The W. A. A., had their first meeting last Tuesday evening.

The former president, Audrey Gill, has left and vice-president Victoria Achin was chosen to fill her place.

Tessie Williams was elected the new secretary-treasurer.

To be a member one has to have ten dollars paid.

A pep rally was planned in the near future for the football game.

The members plan to meet on the campus at noon on the days of big contests.

The University of Mexico is the oldest university in the western hemisphere.

It has been necessary for some of "Spud" Harder's newest proteges to order larger hats.

The local boosters are looking forward with anticipation to another of Mr. Baldwin's unheralded 200-lb. line.

The Estep boys can't find each other in a full length mirror.

Graduate football men are helping "Spud" Harder coach the "rookies"—how does it feel to be experienced men, eh?

The year's debate schedule was officially planned Friday night when the Valley Debate Conference met at Porterville College. The meeting, which was conducted during dinner, was attended by debate coaches and J. C. debaters from all parts of the valley. Those present were: Mr. McGinnis of Taft, who was chairman of the conference; Mr. and Mrs. Wiley K. Peterson and Jack Bethune, of Bakersfield; Miss Ruth Hirschman, of Porterville; Mr. Lehman and Virgil Hicks, of Visalia; Miss Ella A. Evans, of Reedley; and Henry Basham of Taft.

Debate Schedule

The program decided on was as follows:

The third debate, on Jan. 20, will be Oregon style; the fourth, Feb. 20, will be extemporary.

The question for the third debate is: "Resolved, that the advertisement of Commodities as Practical in the United States is more harmful than beneficial. The subject for the Oratorical contest is "Social Emancipation." The schedule is so planned that the negative teams of the dual-debates will always travel to meet the affirmative of the home schools.
