Co-ed Contest Proves High-Light Of Week's Social Life

Miss Alice Rankin Wins Most Votes, Jane White Clinches Runner-Up Spot

The climax of the Bakersfield Junior College "All Americans Co-ed Contest" was reached Friday when Miss Alice Rankin, executive committee candidate, polled 30 votes, followed by Miss Jane White, Big staff candidate, with 26 votes.

Miss Rankin's past includes presidency of her class as a freshman in high school and an unspotted record of three years of scholarship and social leadership, preceded by a charming personality.

Miss White is a product of Texas, and is in the unusual position of being both a "star" and "newcomer" in our campus life. The two "newcomer" girls were formally presented to a very representative student body by President E. D. Creamer at the Fox theatre by Bob Moore, student council president. Miss Rankin and Miss White were obviously at their ease in black and white gowns respectively. They are being offered as a change in the Christmas banquet event, where the two normally would be "newcomers" to the Ball of Centaurs.

The contest, which started in high popularity in the Fraternity Panhellenic, is continuing with independent organizations. Miss Alice Rankin, Spanish Club candidate; and Miss Ellen Phillips, Bakersfield Academy, candidate for African American, are still not out of the running.

Boeing Offers Scholarships

The W. E. Boeing Scholarship, sponsored by Mr. W. E. Boeing, founder of the Boeing Airplane Company, was offered as an incentive to college students who have demonstrated "outstanding" ability in any one field. The first award will be a Boeing Airplane Scholarship in any one field. The second award will be in the same field. The third award will cover a minimum of 200 hours of lecture and shop work and will be awarded to any one in any one field.

New Material—New System

Season Of Team

Expressed during their entire new season in trying to learn a new system with a green team, the Renegades are anything but disheartened with the outcome of their schedule. Coach Jack Frost set to work in September with a lot of freshmen material which showed great promise but lit little experience. Those who played a year of tackle ball were stepped in the rank-and file of the back-quarter line, the term.

The rest knew very little of the kind of ball that is taught by Frost. The Renegades are not the “tryouts” renegades any longer. Jack Frost has established himself as one of the outstanding coaches in the state.

He’s looking forward to a great

The annual awarding of letters before the student body is one of the best means of encouragement to young men—both in athletics and careers. When a grid player, or any other trained athlete walks into the classrooms and recalls a letter, it’s the thrill of his lifetime. That award isn’t a mere medal or piece of cloth in the form of a letter. It stands for more than that—it shows that the fellow has gone through the courses in the same manner. He’ll have his struggles, but if he’s game—he’ll ride the bumps until he’s rewarded in the future. There is it a nutshel—why football awards are so important—it encourages youth.
