Thirty ushers for winter concerts will be needed

Miss Arlette Schaefer, German instructor, has put out an urgent appeal to ushers to serve at the concerts presented by the German concert association this winter.

Miss Schaefer is in charge of the ushers for the concert season. She asks that interested students write to her as soon as possible. The concerts include:

- December 15: The Heiner Quartet
- January 26: The Engle Quartet
- February 9: The Wester Quartet
- March 1: The Rocker Quartet
- March 23: The Wester Quartet
- April 5: The Heiner Quartet

Those interested should write to Miss Schaefer as soon as possible.

New Leave policy set for veterans

Under a new policy of the university administration, veteran students will be allowed to take a six weeks' leave of absence during the entire span of their studies. The purpose of this policy is to allow veteran students to take a six weeks' leave to travel or to engage in other activities. This policy is being implemented to support veterans' needs and to accommodate their personal and career goals.

Office staff will aid BC students

With the assistance of the university administration, veteran students will be provided with support services by the university staff. This support includes counseling, academic advising, and job placement assistance.

New garden club taught by Holmes

The new garden club, which is being taught by Mary Holmes, will meet on Wednesdays at 4:00 PM in the garden room. The club is open to all students interested in gardening.

Econ instructor

Dr. Luke stated that the high cost of living is a serious problem that cannot be ignored. He suggested that students examine their spending habits and find ways to reduce their expenses. The Econ instructor added that the cost of living is a complex issue that requires careful analysis and planning.

November fifth is contest deadline

Students are encouraged to participate in the annual contest for the best dance group. The deadline for submissions is November fifth.

Joe attends a dance

Joe is quite the dancer, especially when he is in the company of his favorite girls. Last week, he took his date to the annual school dance, and the two were seen dancing together all night. Joe's moves were the talk of the dance floor, and many were envious of his ability to charm the girls. Despite the attention, Joe remained humble and focused on having a good time with his girlfriend.

Question of the week

By Janice Beyer

Chemistry student's daydream reveals travel in remote land

The one who wears an eraser back and is used to rub one's errors is called a dyslexic. Yes, yes, yes. There are many who have heard the term before, but few know the true significance of what it means. Dyslexia is a disorder that affects reading, writing, and spelling. It is a condition that makes it difficult for a person to learn to read and write, and it is estimated that up to 10% of the population suffers from it. However, not everyone who struggles with reading has dyslexia. Some may simply need more time or help to learn how to read. It is important to understand the difference between the two to better support individuals who are struggling with reading.

My pet gripe

I would like to take this opportunity to express my pet gripe. To me, there is nothing more frustrating than being stuck in traffic. The constant honking, tailgating, and general lack of consideration for others makes me feel like I'm on a never-ending road trip. It's as if everyone else has forgotten how to drive and they're all just waiting for the next excuse to honk and shout. It's time for us all to remember the golden rule: treat others as you would like to be treated. It's about time we all start taking responsibility for our actions on the road.

O. Dimwit says constitutional right violated here...slavery

To better represent the students of BC with cases of the disturbances that occurred last week, The University of Michigan held a meeting where the constitutional right to assemble was violated. O. Dimwit, a member of the faculty, stated that the right to assemble is a constitutional right that should be protected. However, the university administration argued that the right to assemble does not include the right to disrupt the academic environment.

BC coeds use modern tactics on whiskeys

The BC coeds are known for their unique and innovative tactics in their whiskeys game. This week, they introduced a new strategy that has caught the attention of the campus.

Their approach involves using modern technology to create a more immersive and engaging experience for the players. They have also incorporated elements of teamwork and collaboration, which has helped them to achieve higher success rates.

"We've been experimenting with different tactics and technologies, and we're really excited about how it's coming together," said a BC coed.
