Tryouts for Musical Begin Next Monday

General tryouts for parts in the following BC musical production, "Finnian’s Rainbow," will begin next Monday, Oct. 7. They will be held during seventh period in the choir room until final casting is completed, according to Warren Wheatland, general director. Half of the cast of thirty-five will consist of non-student roles.

Students of the music department have been auditioning for the past week and the enrolled student body is encouraged to try for any part.

"Finnian’s Rainbow" by A. Y. Hagedorn and Fred Prince, opened on Broadway January 10, 1947 and ran for 515 performances.

Because it is a dramatic production, those interested in straight drama will find it a worthwhile vehicle for their talents. Music will be available in room 5608 where the tryouts will be held.

Council Cracks Down On Poor Game Conduct

The Student Executive Council put teeth into the rules regulating conduct in the rooting section. After they passed a motion Tuesday authorizing Vet's Club to "refuse entry to or eject any person or persons to the administration of Bakersfield College or to eject uncooperatively students from the rooting section..."

The action came following complaints by some extremely poor displays of sportsmanship last week by several Bakersfield College students. Bob Arnold, president of the Veteran's Club, said, "We believe we can enforce some good sportsmanship on those few individuals in the rooting section who are giving the student body a bad name."

Show Some Spirit

The coming season tried the Renegades’ desire for enthusiasm, and its efforts, although sometimes directed at the last two football games. What happens in the annual basketball season? It is between the defense line and the offensive line. It is between the quarterback and the center. It is between the guard and the tackle. It is between the end and the right tackle.

Some have suggested that the lack of spirit in the Renegade football stands is due to the lack of sound organization and leadership in the student body. That may be true, but the lack of spirit in the student body is due to the lack of organization and leadership in the Renegade football stands. Superstition Speeds Activity of "Grandmas"

by Molly Smith

As Halloweens draws near, superstitions may enter your mind. What are superstitions? In my estimation, superstitions are just a lot of "important" statements, mysteriously attributed to authority figures.

I was standing along Main Street the other night, trying to decide whether to go to the movies or to the house. Suddenly, I heard a loud bang. I looked up and saw a large, dark object in the sky. It was a balloon, but I didn't think much of it.

Later, I was sitting at home, reading a book. Suddenly, the power went out. I was surprised, but not too surprised. I had just heard a news report about a serious power outage in the area.

I decided to go to bed and wait for the power to come back. As I lay in bed, I began to wonder about the meaning of the events that had just occurred. Was there some kind of supernatural force at work? Was it possible that I was about to experience a near-death experience?

I decided to try to prove it to myself. I would run a simple experiment. I would perform a small, unimportant task, and see if it would have any effect on the power.

I turned on the light switch, and the light came on. I was pleased. I had just performed a small, unimportant task, and the power had come on. I had just proved that superstitions are not real.

But then I realized that I had performed a small, unimportant task, and the power had come on. I had just proved that superstitions are not real. I had just proved that I was not about to experience a near-death experience.

In conclusion, I would say that superstitions are not real. They are just a lot of "important" statements, mysteriously attributed to authority figures. I would advise everyone to stop believing in superstitions, and to start believing in reason.
Gades Edge SM 20-19, Tie for Third Place

The Gades proved that they're still very much in the conference race when they clipped Jim-Powers' Santa Monica Counts 26-19 last Saturday night, at Memorial Stadium. The Gades have yet to be defeated on "home grounds" this year.

Last week's game revealed that the Gades have another potential scoring threat in halfback O'Neil Cutty. He returned the SM kickoff 32 yards and then proceeded for 65 more yards and BC's first TD in the first period.

With the spark plug in the second, Gade, TD, when he got away for two long runs. Bob Jackson, who was a consistent yard-gainer, made BC's last six-pointer and Nolan Campbell converted to give the Gades the edge.

Coach Harbin's team draws a bye this week, but hosts Santa Monica one week from tomorrow. The Counts are supposedly a strong or stronger than the Gades due to the Warriors defeat by Santa Monica two weeks ago, 8-7.

ANCIENT HISTORY

Origin of Football

by Mike McManus

Editor's note: Due to the limitation of space this article cannot be printed in its entirety. It will be printed in a consecutive weekly series. It is designed for the student that is unfamiliar with the game of football and for the student who is interested in the origin of football.

History first records a game similar to football, as we know it today, when the City of Sparta in Greece was at the zenith of its power. The Spartans called the game "harpastum" and the object was to drive the ball by passing, kicking, or carrying it across the enemy's goal line.

Romans Modify Sport

The Romans then modified the Spartan game and called it "Cal- sito," a football team seemed to die down until the 11th century when it started up again in England. It was at a time when the Danes made a practice of invading England.

The Danes were universally bat- ted by the English. The Britons would produce a skull of a long dead Dane and commence to kick it around the village. This game was called "Kicking the Dwarfs' Head."

Game Spreads

This game spread like wild fire throughout England; and for several generations it became the favorite pastime. The younger boys who adopted the pastime of their elders and the historic schools of Eton, Harrow, Rugby, and West- minster were giving rules to the game which was used in class com- petition.
