Two weeks ago at the beach city, the Vikes came out on top by a 74-44 count.

Probably the biggest defensive problem the Gade will face will be the job of stopping Bill Ellis. The jump shot artist has been a threat in the side of the Gade, striking his first goal of the season against the locals. In the first meeting he tallied 38 in the opening 30 minutes of play. The second time around he buried the nets with 37 markers.

Coach Nuss stated that, "I plan to go along with the same starting lineup I used against Hill Canyon from Friday night. The locals used Jim Goode and Art Keller at the post, Norm Upham at center, and Wes Craigman and Bill Willse will make the forward posts."

Editorial... Equal Competition?

The idea of having a state competition for high school athletes is a great one. It encourages the athletes to work hard and compete with each other. However, there are some concerns that need to be addressed. First, the costs associated with such a competition can be quite high, both in terms of funding and logistics. Second, the scheduling of such an event can be challenging, especially for schools located in remote areas. Finally, there are concerns about the fairness of the competition, particularly regarding the distribution of resources and the potential for corruption. Overall, while the idea of a state competition is a good one, it is important to address these concerns to ensure that it is implemented in a way that is fair and inclusive for all participants.

Handcuffed to a Tree

The Central Conference has at handuled.

We are an offshoot of the College. We are not better.

Our problem is what they are having. We are concerned with our

Each course should be composed of schools which have similar levels of operation. An equal line in a certain new area.

Without the title of a larger college, smaller schools are emerging, and that produce stronger representation on their own. On the other hand, we would be able to work out our problems in a conference with schools of our own level of operation.

The title of a larger college should be the original one for any school. Why should student government belong to the Conference? This is what students have a problem with. Does the Conference mean what the students mean in the conference? On the other hand, why should the administration and the student groups belong to the conference when student government belongs to the central conference?

Actually, if the athletic teams didn't belong to the Metro Conference, we would lose several thousand dollars a year in gate receipts which would not be put just about on the level with the Central Regional Conference system.

We are not enlisting those schools. However, we are hand/gallery with enrollment.

To correct the situation, the Board of Representatives formed a committee to investigate the possibility of asking the basketball College logging the Southern California Junior College Student Government Association. The committee then requests the committee to make a recommendation which may get this school off its feet. Are we satisfied with our present strategy, or do we want to reviews.

On the Board, however, there is strong opposition to this measure as well as strong support. The limited amount of student opinion could help in the final decision.

THINCLADS IN DEFENSE OF EAST LA RELAY TITLE

by Ed Tobey

Many of the close basketball games have been decided at the free throw line, and sometimes even the not-so-close ones. A game which could have been decided in the last few minutes to place the champion in the top tier of the poll was decided by two important factors in the pressure of the situation and the mental factors.

The big question in coaching circles today is whether this is good for basketball, or whether something can be done to correct the situation.

The Gade-About must again take the blame.

The free throw is the dirtiest scoring play in sports, it takes little athletic ability to get the ball free of the opponent at the foul line, and it does not disfigure the game.

Due to the fact that a human being is placed as the judge of what is a foul, there are instances where the team that plans to make the free throw holds the largest number of fouls and controls the line, and the referee is helpless.

The only objective of a statistician is a player scored the points are added to the team's total. The main reason for the foul is to gain control of the ball, and to a make two points.

The foul is a necessary evil in the game of basketball, and a better statistician could be found, but there are many things that could be done to correct the system.

The NBA came up with an effective solution in a recent case where the ball instead of a free throw to a player from behind the free throw line.

The Director of Athletics and coach for basketball in the conference, says it is a no-fuss, no-stress situation.

He recommends a return to the rules of the older days that have been effectively altered throughout the years. This would include abolition of the "one and one" free throw left, and a player would be counted from the game when he committed fouls.

Head Basketball Coach Jim Neesman, who also is the referee for the conference, says what is needed is more of the same. It is more difficult in this age to replace what was a good game.

A word of advice to the Gades: No matter who the opponent, a team must take a step within 15 yards of the game of basketball.

The wish is that this ideal of the "one and one" rule of the NBA, which has been so successful, will be adopted by the conference.

The only obstacle to the game being highly successful is the pressure of the game.

The Gades, who have been so successful in winning the conference, should not allow the pressure of the game to affect their performance.

Attention will be given to winning a New Year's Day trophy, sponsored by the faculty, for the best Gade of the year.

The first stop on a long road to victory is the annual championship game round tomorrow afternoon for the Renegade track team as Coach Ray McGraw returns for the fourth Annual East LA Relay.

The first event begins at one p.m.

The meet will feature all eight conference members.

Bakkenfield captured the 300-yard dashes last year, but not in a record time. The trend among Long Beach College, LA Harbor, and El Camino was to the lead, and the track and field meets. Relays are programmed for the 4-100, 800, mile-two-mile, divisional and junior varsity events.

Neuman's charges will enter the meet prepared for tough competition. The Gades were invited to San Jose where they dropped 4-2, 5-11.” Team members Tony Ronco and Jesse Hernandez have been a strong achievement in the mile and two-mile. The English runners, 8-0, 7-0, and 5-4, are strong in the mile, Hernandez grabbed on another two seasons ago.

Half mile specialist Jim Pepper, who is expected to lead the team, will participate in the mile and two-mile. Another Gade, Bob Lucas, did 2:01.7. A 13-foot clearance by Richard Williams gave BC a lead on the pole vault.

The spirit of coach Dennis Maloney is visible in the first relay event, the 4-100. Tomorrow the Gade trio will compete against San Jose in the meet. Maloney coached his last year in high school.

Visser, who entered the broad jump for two straight years, took a last leap of 22'-7/4", for third, but he felt the leap should have been closer to 22'-8". Lloyd McCoy and Young also leaped 22 feet.
