Students To Represent Bakersfield College at CCJCSGA Conference

Three-thousand Bakersfield College students will have the opportunity to attend the spring conference of the Central California Junior College Student Government Association (CCJCSGA) April 28-29. Each of the delegates, who represent the Student Senate, the Student Activities Council, and various student organizations, will attend a workshop on Tuesday, April 28, at the beginning of the conference at 8 a.m., and another on Wednesday, April 29, at 9 a.m.

Semester Break Possible

For the second time this semester, Tuesday, March 9, the Student Senate met with the possibility of a five-day break in the middle of the semester. The two days missed under the proposal would be made up by having classes end at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, March 24, instead of 4 p.m., and starting classes again Monday, March 29. This makes up only for the Monday classes that would be missed by spring break. Monday classes might be held for the other days, if other classes have to be dropped.

A Board of Representatives committee met with the possibility of a break, and the administration had already planned for a break after the final exam period. If the break is approved, the students will have to make up for two days missed. However, the two days missed will have to be made up by the two days missed.

Some of our best friends are raccoons.

In an effort of exploring and digging the soil, we usually come across little furry animals like these. As a “tunnel” in the forest, a raccoon has a tendency to dig through the surface and build its burrows. They are often seen in several ways, working quietly with both their hands and feet outside. We even find these animals playing with small seeds and fruits, and as we play with them, they play with us with interest.

Good news for people going to the dunes is that the raccoon growth is slowing, even though they are still going to be found in the area.

'Ain't' Is In Dictionary; Becomes Standard Word

by Bill Rubin

Who says 'ain't' isn't in the dictionary? It's far from being so, states a scholarly magazine that has been termed a "high-class" and "well-reasoned" dictionary. And the word has been the subject of criticism and praise ever since.

The pioneers of "new words" can be traced back to the "ain't" era. The word is a prefix that is added to verbs, nouns, and adjectives to indicate a negative or contrary state.

A total count of 106 such words and 18 phrases indicates this usage, according to the "Ain't" magazine article. Among the words are "ain't right," "ain't no use," and "ain't goin' to be no more." The "ain't" word is considered unsophisticated.

Despite this, "ain't" is often used in daily conversation. It is said that "ain't" words are not considered standard English.

Maybe A Semester Break Would Help

The end of the semester is near, and for some students, the thought of a break may be overwhelming. Here are some tips to make the most of your break:

1. Take a break from school work. It's important to take time for yourself and recharge.
2. Spend time with friends and family. Catch up on your relationships and make new memories.
3. Take care of yourself. Eat healthy, get enough sleep, and exercise.
4. Consider a new hobby or activity. This could be a new sport, a new language, or a new craft.
5. Go on a trip. This could be a weekend getaway or a longer vacation.

Remember, a break is important, but it's also important to stay on track with your goals and plans for the future.

"Just Like Medieval Minnesingers"

by Vic Roland

The swimming music has a high following among college students and has been translated into words in the United States. And now we are witnessing this manifestation of the music in the music of the Minnesinger.
And that means singing in the music of the Minnesinger.
It is a very lively and radiant music which one can enjoy by groups like the Minnesinger, a combination group. But the Minnesinger is good at the church, but it is not so good in the full congregation.

BC Gymnasts Meet Strong Valley Next

BC's gymnastics squad prepares for yet another tough match this week with gymnastics powerhouse Valley next Thursday at the southernland school.

Today, the Gades met the second of their tough opponents while they collided with Santa Monica. Tomorrow, they're off to St. Louis to see what the big fellows can do.

Terry Tucker of BC's high point man, with 115 points, followed by Jim Warren (111), Joe Cox (102), Jim Martens (7), and KenBell (64)

Wes is reputedly a high point man but he hit his frame in the tournament event and was disqualified although he was a "catch heat" according to Coach Sabatier.

The Gades went one yesterday's men without the talents of Tucker, but for two weeks because of academic obligations and will probably be without him for next week's meet with Valley.

All in all, Lenois was somewhat pleased with BC's performances, saying that veterans were hit better than against El Camino and other previous times.
