Revised By-Laws Presented to Board

The Board of Representatives in its regular meeting Thursday considered proposed revisions and additions to the by-laws and regulations presented by John G. Greenough, Citizenship Committee chairman. The by-laws, if passed by a two-thirds vote of the board, will be effective immediately and will remain in effect until the next regular meeting, at which time another Constitution that will go into effect the following year will be chosen.

These by-laws and regulations will be debated and voted upon next Thursday by all students. All students are encouraged to attend this meeting to make their voices heard on the by-law changes.

Once these by-laws are adopted, the changes will be made in the rule of student body card prices from $1.50 to $2.00. This change will be effective immediately and will remain in effect until the next regular meeting, at which time another Constitution that will go into effect the following year will be chosen.

These by-laws and regulations will be debated and voted upon next Thursday by all students. All students are encouraged to attend this meeting to make their voices heard on the by-law changes.

All-American Speaks To Clubs

Dore Mommer, recently made one of the guest speakers there at the Multnomah Center, was pleased to be invited to speak to a Jordanville high school student body. After being introduced by the principal, Professor Mommer proceeded to address the students.

Mommer spoke about the importance of education and the opportunities that come with it. He encouraged the students to pursue their dreams and to never give up on their goals. He also talked about the importance of being a good citizen and giving back to the community.

The students were very engaged and seemed to be interested in what Mommer had to say. They asked many questions and Mommer was happy to answer them. He left the students with a positive message and a sense of hope for the future.

No Money Here, Sir Angelo

By Virginia Benner

A murder mystery was staged at Bolkanoff College to promote teamwork and problem-solving skills among the students. The mystery was set in the 1800s, and the students were divided into groups to solve the case.

Two students, Peter and Sara, were found dead in their dorm room. The police were called to the scene and began their investigation. The students were divided into groups of four to work on the case, and each group was given a set of clues to help them solve the mystery.

The groups had to work together to piece together the clues and determine the identity of the murderer. The groups had to use deductive reasoning, critical thinking, and problem-solving skills to solve the case.

The final group to solve the case was rewarded with a prize. The police were impressed with the hard work and dedication of the students, and they commended them for their efforts.

A team from the Multnomah Center won the prize. They were able to solve the case within the allotted time and had the correct suspect in custody.

The Multnomah Center is proud of the students who participated in this murder mystery. They showed teamwork and problem-solving skills that will be helpful in their future careers.
Two Cases Declared
Guilty by Student Court

Verdicts of guilty were handed down Friday afternoon in the student courtroom on the campus of the Royce Bissell Building when the Royce Bissell Student Court met at its regular court meeting Wednesday afternoon.

The Royce Bissell Student Court was composed of 12 judges, including George L. Whalen, President; John E. H. Allen, Vice President; E. A. Whitaker, Secretary; and E. B. H. Allen, Treasurer. The Student Court is composed of students who are elected by the student body to serve a four-year term.

The Royce Bissell Student Court met at its regular court meeting Wednesday afternoon. The court met in the Royce Bissell Building to hear the cases of two students, one of whom was charged with violating the rules of the Student Court and the other was charged with violating the rules of the Student Body.

The court decided to find both students guilty of the charges brought against them and to impose penalties on them.

The court found that the student who was charged with violating the rules of the Student Court had violated the rules by failing to pay his tuition fees on time. The court imposed a penalty of $10 fine on the student.

The court found that the student who was charged with violating the rules of the Student Body had violated the rules by failing to attend classes regularly. The court imposed a penalty of three days suspension on the student.

The court also ruled that the students were guilty of the charges brought against them and that they should be punished accordingly.

Debaters Polish
Pro-Con Arguments

A debate was held on the topic of whether or not the United States should have a system of national service. The debate was held at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Union Building.

Two students, one from the affirmative side and one from the negative side, presented their arguments. The affirmative side argued that the United States should have a system of national service because it would help to promote peace and understanding between different cultures. The negative side argued that the United States should not have a system of national service because it would be too expensive and would take away from the rights of individuals.

The debate was moderated by Professor John E. H. Allen, who asked the students to present their arguments in a clear and concise manner.

The affirmative side presented their arguments, which included the following points:

1. National service would help to promote peace and understanding between different cultures.
2. National service would help to provide jobs for people who are unable to find work.
3. National service would help to provide a sense of community and belonging for people who are feeling isolated.

The negative side presented their arguments, which included the following points:

1. National service would be too expensive.
2. National service would take away from the rights of individuals.
3. National service would not be fair to everyone.

The debate was a lively and engaging discussion that highlighted the different viewpoints on the topic of national service.

Ansolabehere, Mitacek Selected JC All-Americans By JC Grid Index

Center Mike Ansolabehere and tackle Frank Mitacek, both sophomore BC football players, were awarded the first team spot on the recently announced All-American Grid Index JC All-American offteensive team. The two BC stars were joined by teammates guard Dave Gasser, second offensive line and scholarship assistant to John Fellers and Bill Peterson, the team's line coach.

The team, annually chosen by Major S. C. Chapman and his Kit-
American Grid Index and the Los Angeles Times, is selected through the cooperation of all the JC football coaches in America. Each coach picks as all-season, all-region, or all-conference player, and the Times and Chapman compile the results.

Ansolabehere,佳rked off the list of assistant coach, was selected by the Grid Index as an all-American offensive tackle.

This year's offensive team was one of the greatest ever assembled. It personally accounted for four miles in yardage gained. The two ends, Hefie Carr of Henderson, Texas, and Pete Smolbahn of Dodge City, Kansas, gained in a 300-pound tackle's list of 480 points.

The running back, with 285 points, was the grid's most improved player of the year. Last season he was a third-stringer. Honors: Williams, Long Beach and Billy Burt, Kalamazoo, passed and ran for over three miles in yardage.

Ansolabehere passed for over a mile, gaining by himself, and Williams gained another mile in rushing.
