Two One-Acts Staged For Comedy Series

The entertaining double bill presented by the English Department this Thursday 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. will be directed by Dr. J. W. Finley, English professor, and Dr. L. E. Hatcher, director of the College Drama Society. The play, "A Little Theatre Mystery," is a comedy of suspense by Dr. Finley. The setting is a London club where five couples are having dinner. The champion of the evening is the hostess, who has arranged for a "little game" with her guests. They are to write down a number on slips of paper and later guess which number is the correct one. The winning number will be announced at the end of the game. Each player has the opportunity to win a prize of his choice. The play is a farce and a mystery, and the audience will be left guessing until the end of the performance.

He is responsible for the dormitory and the athletics department, which are two of the principal functions of the student body. The dormitory is a large building with many facilities, including a cafeteria, a recreation room, and a gymnasium. The athletics department is also a large organization, with several teams, including football, basketball, and baseball.

Although BC students may tend to exclude certain aspects of campus life, the situation is not universally so. Many students, particularly those involved in campus organizations, find that they do participate in a wide variety of activities. The key to effective participation is the willingness to put in the time and effort required. Students who are willing to invest the necessary time and effort will find that they can have a fulfilling campus experience.

Has Free Speech Movement Invaded BC?

The Free Speech Movement, which began as a protest against the Vietnam War, has spread to many college campuses across the country. At BC, the movement has taken many forms, from students protesting against the administration to the formation of new organizations. The movement has been characterized by a desire for greater freedom of speech and expression.

The movement began with a series of protests against the Vietnam War, which had been ongoing for several years. The protests were led by students who were concerned about the war and its effects on the country. The movement gained momentum as more and more students became involved, and soon the protests spread to other campuses.

The movement has been characterized by a desire for greater freedom of speech and expression. Students have been demanding that the administration provide them with more opportunities to express their opinions. The administration has been slow to respond, and many students have felt that they have been silenced.

The movement has had a significant impact on the campus, and it has changed the way that students think about issues. Students have become more engaged in the world around them, and they have become more aware of the social and political issues that affect them and their community.

The movement has also had an impact on the administration, which has been forced to reassess its policies and procedures. The administration has been slow to respond, and many students have felt that they have been silenced.

Some Claim: 'Live and Let Live' - The Mistaken Segregation of Guilt

If you are a freshman or a sophomore, you may have noticed that the phone calls to your room, up until a few months ago, were being discontinued. A BC group, the church group, made a decision to stop dialing freshmen and sophomores. It is a very regrettable decision on their part. Those freshmen and sophomores who are interested in continued contact may want to write a letter to the president of the church group, expressing their desires.

All in good fun...

Some are saying that the government is doing too much and that we should let the private sector take care of things. Others are saying that the government should do more. The truth is that both sides are right. We need a balance between the public and private sectors. This balance is essential for a healthy society.

Yearnings Run Out on Baseball

It could be that the CBS television network is taking the fun out of our national pastime. In former years there were different teams on every week. In this you have two to play against each other in league. But now the CBS has commercial interest in the series. It goes to get series every week for 26 weeks straight.

Personally, I'd like to see the Mets (who are more interested in our National League) and some of the other former teams.

The contest of games the 15-year-old residents of the telephone book in the city. Saturday night holds the pole vault record at 470 and Carl Heiser holds the pole vault record with a vault of 15-8.

But the overall depth seems to be the best ever. No team wins an event against the Gaels.

Coach Bob Coyle should be congratulated for some kind of medal for the job that he has done in the two years. He has brought the teams to the AA Conference finals and this year they are undefeated in dual matches.

Bakerfield College, Sib Boyer has got to be the best swimmer in BC. History. Boyer holds two Conference records and is expected to set another one.

He holds conference records in the 50 and 100 yard free and in the 50 yard backstroke. He also holds the record of conference 400 yard freestyle relay.

Just think, he is a freshman who high school he played third base on the baseball team.
