Voltaire's 'Candide': It's an interesting novel that explores the theme of optimism in a world that can be cruel and harsh. The novel follows the adventures of an optimistic young man named Candide, who is taken on a journey through various countries and encounters many different people and cultures. Despite the challenges he faces, Candide remains optimistic and hopeful throughout the story.

Bad News: Doug Boss Claims Top Honor; Band Misses by One-Tenth

Despite the disappointment of missing the top honor, Doug Boss, the director of the marching band, was pleased with the effort of his students. "They did their best," he said. "We'll be back next year, stronger and better." The band's performance was evaluated by a panel of judges at the annual competition, and they earned a score of 98.5, falling just short of the winning score of 99.0.

Looking Forward to the Future

The future looks bright for the college community. With the success of this year's events and activities, there is no doubt that the next academic year will be even more exciting. The college will continue to provide opportunities for students to grow and develop, and it will continue to be a place of learning and growth.
No 'Running for the Money'

One of the most interesting pieces of legislation in a long time came in the form of a bill before the Board of Representatives last Tuesday. This was a proposed AAB Constitution change which would have resulted in a salary being paid to the student body president and the student body secretary.

The legislation provided that starting next fall these two officers would be paid $125 and $10 per month. And if for some reason these officers would resign only part of a month, then their pay would be determined accordingly.

Some of our faith in the ability of the Board was rewarded when an 18-7 vote was returned to defeat the proposed change.

We submit that payment of these people would be completely unrealistic. One reason for this is that the offices were made to run on their own and they should be aware of the sacrifices that must be made in order to be a student body officer.

If we go on the assumption that the two officers mentioned give untold hours of work and time to the offices they fill, then this is true. For we support them.

But we also submit that there are just as many college students who have to give up outside work, suffer a drop in grades and feel the pressures of being a student body officer.

Of course, it would be hilarious to assume that if the proposed change had passed, it would have encouraged people to run for these offices "for the money." What a few members of the Board fail to realize, or perhaps we do better to say remember, is that they are elected senators.

Those are the people and members of the student body, and we doubt that the people want to start paying their representatives for what really should be an honor.

We feel that there is no greater honor than being able to serve the student body and this does not mean "with pay."
