Hollow Head

By Edna Taylor, BC tutorial project representative to The Activities Board said at the last meeting, "The Activities Board is apparently a figurehead. If it is, it's a hollow one.

At their last meeting, the board deferred action on and to give them the authority to do any activity if they were not approved by the Activities Board.

Apparently, the figureheads didn't realize they were deferring and that they were not in charge of general activity if they were not approved by the Activities Board. If the Activities Board were run by figureheads, they would be elected and this meeting would be new to the world.

What good is the Activities Board now, if the clubs don't need their events approved before they publicize them? Why do we even need an Activities Board? It's apparent that the members don't want to give up the responsibility of what little authority they have. Why don't they give the Activities Board an 'apparition' stamp in the conference room every Monday at 11:30 to okay what events the various clubs want to see approved by themFurthermore, the following distribution of the merchandise to the various clubs and organizations, a distributed and easily updated system of the type that governs the market of the product in Bakersfield. They were to sell the product at about $3.50 each and they were allowed to sell the product for 30 days in which to sell the product.

The purpose was to determine the attitude of students to sell a worth more than a dollar, according to BC President Duff, C. J. Jones, and they hope they don't see BC students' hefty actions as their sole deprecator.

Beasts Revisited

As a result of the problems which arise during the homecoming season, and the fact that a discipline committee was forced to review a case of illegal camping practices, the Student Activity Board has a recommendation for next year's committee to publish the idea is to discipline committee.

The statement specifies that "conduct not becoming a sex discrimination to the enjoyment of a student body in violation of the Student Activity Board's regulations.

While this recommendation will serve as a guideline for next year's committee, there is no regulation in which the committee may adopt such action as in conduct. Just as a student body's actions should be in accordance with the recommendation, and be conducted in a fair manner with the assured candidate being held to the same code of conduct, and being present at all proceedings to defend herself.

The Marbles Can Be Ours

Now that football season is here, we want to hear from our readers who are not yet familiar with the game of marbles.

We were out in the streets today and except for the first game given to everyone they are not familiar with the rules of the game. Apparently they think that those who sit in the seating section could not have heard of the rules of marbles. But the fact is that there are many who have never heard of the game.

Fresno Rams, Fullerton Hornets Battle Tomorrow In 19th Annual Potato Bowl

By Bob Manners

The Associated Press

Fullerton will be going for its second straight AAU victory as it meets the Rams in the annual potato bowl game. The Rams have won one out of the last five years, but so far this season they have been defeated only twice.

Fresno State is one of the top teams in the West. This is a fast, agile, and sticky ball team. Last year's loss of a few veterans has caused some difficulty for the Rams. Their five-man forward line has been turned into a three-man line, and this has caused some problems for the Rams.

Fullerton has overcome the memory of defeat by winning several games, but they have still been defeated several times this season. They have been defeated by the San Jose State University and the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Rams will play at 5:00 PM in the stadium located at the corner of Colorado and Main Street. The game will be televised on KALB television.

San Francisco Journey Controversial, Tidious
Children Must Play

It seems that old rumors never die, they just spread. Such is the case with the rumor that is still, after almost three weeks, causing all the excitement. According to Bob Schlepper, Robert Witten, and Bob Reinman, the rumor has been ongoing for the past three weeks.

Children are being led around by blindfolds and left in a room with a basket of toys. The children are not allowed to touch anything inside the room until they are told it is safe to do so by the adults who are leading them around.

At first, it was thought that the children were being used as a form of punishment. However, it quickly became clear that this was not the case. The children were not being punished, but rather being used to test the safety of the toys in the room.

The school has since conducted a thorough investigation of the toys in the room and determined that they are all safe for use. The children have been allowed to play with the toys, and the rumor has been put to rest.

Mechanical Dependability

By Betsy Wray

I have been lately thinking about the importance of mechanical dependability in our daily lives. It is a quality that is often taken for granted, but without it, our lives would be much more difficult.

Many of us rely on our cars, appliances, and other machines to function properly. When they break down, it can be very frustrating and inconvenient. That is why it is so important to have reliable mechanical systems.

The importance of dependability is especially clear in the field of engineering. Engineers must design systems that can be relied on to function properly, even in the face of unexpected problems. This requires a deep understanding of the underlying principles of mechanics and a commitment to high-quality work.

In conclusion, mechanical dependability is a crucial aspect of our lives. We should all strive to develop a deeper appreciation for the importance of this quality in our daily lives.

Rip’s Endorsement

Clubs and organizations on campus have endorsed candidates. As a campus organization, and also to perform our duties as a responsible newspaper, the Rip now offers its endorsement.

Our endorsement for A.S.B. President is Rick Congriff. Congriff’s many qualifications include serving this semester as A.S.B. Vice President, filling in for President Greg Taddeo when he was absent.

In his platform, Congriff advocates combining the Activities Board with the President, in charge of the campus, and the Executive Board, chief executive of the campus, as well as the Activities Board, chief executive of the campus, and the Executive Board, chief executive of the campus. Congriff is also a member of the Student Senate, which is the legislative branch of the University, and was chairmen of the Housekeeping Steering Committee. He has represented BC on many student government conferences, including the CICSGA conference held recently in San Francisco.

For Congriff’s Vice President, our endorsement is John Reid. This semester, Reid is president of the seniors class, and is a member of the Board of Representatives, where he has been instrumental in programming many student activities.

Gene Bynorth receives our endorsement to succeed Reid as sophomores class president. Bynorth is presently president of the Renegade Band, and is the chairmen of the Board of Representatives, as a long overdue creative consideration that both of these organizations handle each year.

Our endorsement for Chief Justice of the Student Court is Tom Schwartz. Schwartz is presently one of the associate justices of the court and, when cited the case for him, stood in for Home Lake, the present Chief Justice. Schwartz has demonstrated his concern for BC, and is currently the editor of The BC Apothecary.

For the office of freshman class president, we have no endorsement.

Junior's Bazooka Shatters 'Silent Night'

Toys Ignore Viet Nam Holiday Truce
By Oswald J. Heuser, Jr.

If it were a movie, the start of young men in college age or older would be strongly affected by the events of the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement, according to a new study by the University of California. The study, which was conducted by a team of researchers from the university's Department of Psychology, found that the majority of young men in college age or older are likely to continue their study of the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement, even if the war is not resumed.

The researchers used a survey method to collect data from a sample of young men in college age or older. The survey included questions about the young men's beliefs about the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement, their opinions about the war, and their intentions to continue their study of the war.

The results of the study suggest that the majority of young men in college age or older are likely to continue their study of the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement, even if the war is not resumed. The researchers suggest that this may be due to the fact that the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement are still relevant and important issues for young men in college age or older.

The study also found that the young men's beliefs about the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement are likely to be influenced by their political beliefs. For example, young men who identify as conservative are more likely to believe that the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement are important issues, while young men who identify as liberal are more likely to believe that the war is not an important issue.

The researchers suggest that these findings have important implications for education and policy. They suggest that education and policy makers should consider the young men's beliefs about the war in Vietnam and the December truce agreement when developing educational programs and policies.

Six Week Plan Solves Anti-Breakfast Habit

By Linda Hope

Many young people in college age or older have a habit of skipping breakfast, which can lead to a variety of health problems. To help solve this problem, a new six-week plan has been developed by a team of researchers from the University of California. The plan includes a variety of strategies to help young people in college age or older develop a healthy breakfast habit.

The researchers used a survey method to collect data from a sample of young people in college age or older. The survey included questions about the young people's beliefs about breakfast, their opinions about breakfast, and their intentions to develop a healthy breakfast habit.

The results of the study suggest that the young people's beliefs about breakfast are likely to be influenced by their political beliefs. For example, young people who identify as conservative are more likely to believe that breakfast is an important part of a healthy diet, while young people who identify as liberal are more likely to believe that breakfast is not an important part of a healthy diet.

The researchers suggest that these findings have important implications for education and policy. They suggest that education and policy makers should consider the young people's beliefs about breakfast when developing educational programs and policies.

The six-week plan includes a variety of strategies to help young people in college age or older develop a healthy breakfast habit. These strategies include

- Setting a goal to eat breakfast every day
- Making breakfast easy to prepare
- Choosing healthy breakfast options
- Making breakfast a priority

The researchers suggest that these strategies are likely to be effective in helping young people in college age or older develop a healthy breakfast habit.

The study also found that the young people's beliefs about breakfast are likely to be influenced by their cultural beliefs. For example, young people who identify as Hispanic are more likely to believe that breakfast is an important part of a healthy diet, while young people who identify as Asian are more likely to believe that breakfast is not an important part of a healthy diet.

The researchers suggest that these findings have important implications for education and policy. They suggest that education and policy makers should consider the young people's cultural beliefs when developing educational programs and policies.

The 1967 Rose Bowl

By Owen A. Brown, Jr.

1967 was a year of successes. To my delight, the people of the world were enlightened. The problems of the past were left behind as the people of the world moved forward.

As the year drew to a close, the team that had been the focus of everyone's attention was the Dallas Cowboys. Their performance on the field was nothing short of amazing. They had managed to overcome the odds and bring home the victory.

But this year was not without its challenges. The team faced many obstacles and had to work hard to achieve their goals. However, their dedication and hard work paid off in the end.

The 1967 Rose Bowl was a memorable event. The team's victory was a testament to their determination and resilience. It was a moment of joy and celebration for all who had supported them throughout the season.

In the end, the team's success was a reflection of the greater good that could be achieved through hard work and perseverance. The 1967 Rose Bowl was a symbol of hope and inspiration for all who had believed in their ability to succeed.

Texans, Taft Victorious in Final Bowls

'66 Junior college football came to a close last Saturday as Henderson, Tex., defeated hometown Pasadena in the Junior College Bowl, 40-3, and Taft College edged Cisco, Tex., 21-19, in the Wool Bowl at Roseville, Calif. It was the 21st and last Junior College Bowl and an offer from sponsors of the Pasadena game and Bakersfield's Shriners Potato Bowl to incorporate their contests into California JC playoffs next year were rejected by the State JC Athletic Association.

Leading, the way for Henderson against the PCC Lancers was the spectacular aerial combination of quarterback Ellis Wall, 24, and end split end Margene Adlin. Valdez completed 20 of his 28 passes for 284 yards and six touchdowns, all JRB records.

The End... Adlin, a co-player of the game in Henderson's 1965 loss to Fullerton, lived up to his two year JC All American billing by catching nine Valdez bullets for 199 yards and three touchdowns.

The extent to which Henderson dominated the contest is reflected in total yardage posted, 566 for Henderson and 246 for the Lancers.

The Junior Rose Bowl left Pasadena's season log at 8-4, and Henderson's at 9-1. Henderson's loss was inflicted by Cisco, 44-30.

At Roseville in the first annual Wool Bowl, the game was won by Valley City, 21-19, in a duel between Taft's Paul Waite and Valley's Don Smith. Waite, in his first start as a sophomore, had a chilly, New Mexico afternoon at the stadium.

Cisco struck first with a Peace pass to Valley Bulby in the second quarter, and for 39 yards and six points.

Following a third quarter exchange of scores, Taft found itself trailing 12-7 going into the final stanza of this hard earned Cougar touchdown and two conversion kicks by Don Smith put the game on ice for Taft.

Waite Wins Belf... Pearson, who passed for all three Cisco scores, completed 11 of 24 passes for 209 yards, while Waite connected on 16 of 28 and 298 yards,...

Rough Battle Expected As Fresno-BC Matmen Clash

By hosting the Fresno City College Rams tonight at 7:30 the Bakersfield wrestlers will be receiving their first still dual test of the season.

The contest comes on the heels of a Bakersfield-Potterfield match Thursday evening in which the Gades were expected to win handily and extend their dual record to 30.

Coach Bruce Pfutzenreuter says that the rugged match for JC will come at the 123, 190, 192, and 171 weight brackets. Representing the Gades in these three events will be Emmett Herron (123), Albert Valdez (130), Mike Collor (122) and Larry Brewer (171).

Several Changes

There will be several changes made by this week's invasion. John Stein (180) has contracted tonsillitis and will be replaced by Sam Goldberg. Brewer, who has been wrestling in the 191 pound division, while weighing 170 pounds, will move to the 167 bracket, switching places with Richard Simmons.

Good Indicator

A good indicator of how well matched the two squads are is the result of last week's double dual meet at Bakersfield. Fresno and BC, along with Mt. San Antonio and Fullerton participated in this one.

While Bakersfield was defeating Fullerton, 36-7, Fresno polished off Mt. Sac, 36-7. And, as BC took care of Mt. Sac 44-14, the "Rams" were gaining revenge for their football loss to the Rams.

The match of the evening ended in a loss for Bakersfield. Gordon Levy (145) from Fullerton, who had defeated the "unbeatable" Curtis Alder of El Camino (61) the night before, pulled off the same trick against Bakersfield's Mike Brown (464). Brown was the state JC 137 champ last season.

Pfutz. Begins Third Term As Mat Coach

By Alan Hanz

Starting his third year as wrestling coach at Bakersfield College is Bruce Pfutzenreuter, who has had his boys at the top of the South High School list since 1964.

Pfurtenreuter was born in Chicago, Ill., in 1932. His high school days were spent at Carth- ed, N.M., where he was a top grapple in all around.

At Carlsbad he was competed on the football, basketball, baseball and track teams, gaining All State recognition in football and basketball.

After a short stint with Ft. Lewis Junior College in Durango, Colo., Pfutzenreuter enrolled at the University of Arizona.

He gained both his Bachelor of Science degree in 1962 and Master's in Education from Colorado in the fall term.

At the university Pfutzenreuter had his athletes work under the track, on which he competed in both the quarter mile and half mile for the Buffaloes. For two successive seasons he was the Rocky Mountain A.A.U. champ in the half mile. Although he did not turn out for any team later gained at Cal- roso, it was during his collegiate days that Pfutzenreuter first became Bruce Pfutzenreuter says that he picked up several fundamentals from a couple of trips at the United States, but it happened to be NCAA wrestling titles.

After completing his Masters work, Pfutzenreuter came to California and South High in 1963. While at South he was not only the wrestling coach, but also served as an assistant to Larry Laidin in the football season and as the head Rebel track and field mentor.

Southern Powerhouse

Under Pfutzenreuter's tutelage the Rebels became an established wrestling power in the San Jose San- juan Valley. His team garnered two South Vincentian League championships and twice took home the second place team trophy from Valley meets. They compiled a six year dual meet record of 74 wins and 14 losses.

Several boys, such as Rocky Gaski, Joe Barton, Harmon Silmor and Mike Coller began their wrestling careers at South High and are now continuing at South under the present Rebel grappling master, Morley, and are wrestling for Pfutzenreuter again, only now they are and.

So, with his former Rebel, and with home heroes, in several of the fine wrestling high schools in the Bakersfield area, Pfutzenreuter is now home in another wrestling dynasty, this time at the junior college level.

The grappling coach's personal coaching section consists of his ex- Rebel Steve (Shreve 3), and son Dean (14).
