Activities Board Discusses Potato Bowl Dance

The刷新ers' withdrawal of support for the Debate Board and the request of sponsorship of five mounties were the major topics discussed at the Activities Board meeting.

Customarily, the activities board sponsored a dance with the刷新ers, and for this year, they offered the Potato Bowl Dance for the first time.

This year, however, the board will pay for the Ex-Es. Dance. Unlike past years, the board members will not be able to attend this dance.

Speakers Seek Sponsorship

The board also has received requests from campus organizations to sponsor dance events.

Kenneth Armstrong has agreed to lecture on "South Vietnam." Board

Board Approved By Council For Higher Education

A new agency called the Board of Governors for the California Community Colleges has been approved by the California State Board of Education. This new agency will be responsible for higher education in the state.

The board has agreed to sponsor the upcoming dance.

Barbara West has been selected as the student representative for the board.

Committee Views Homecoming Rules

A new idea introduced at the homecoming steering committee's third meeting is "self-help" and "self-management" aspects of the homecoming parade.

The committee passed a new rule permitting "any club" to join the parade, provided that they have a "homecoming queen group." This replaced the old rule, which had only 10 members.

The purpose of this new ruling is to enable the smaller clubs to participate in the parade and be more involved in the homecoming ceremony. In the past, the most prominent clubs were the sponsor of a queen candidate because of the large number of members.

To add even more excitement and gaiety to the Homecoming Festival, Bakersfield Mayor Jack Kartin has decreed this year's week an "Ex-Es and Bakersfield College Week!"

The steering sub-committee set the maximum number of members for any club "homecoming" group at 25, reducing the number from 75 at the last homecoming.

Controversy and criticism of any kind to be "self-help" and "self-management," and the committee has been set to work on the homecoming dance.

In order to establish more uniformity in the dance, the photographs of the queen candidates will be limited to headshots only.

Foreign Students Initiated to 'Jargon' at BC

26 Foreign Students Represent 14 Countries

Once again, Bakersfield College has foreign students from many countries. This year, the college is proud to welcome students from Thailand, Italy, China, and many other countries.

Volunteer Tutoring Aids Students Weak in English

Campus service groups offered help to foreign students.

Amendments Discussed at Board of Rep.

Three ASB Constitutional amendments were presented and talked about at the Board of Representatives meeting Tuesday.

The first amendment was proposed by sophomore president John Reid. The purpose was to limit the number of representatives on various committees, keeping the executive board of a small, less cumbersome size. The amendment was referred to a committee, which requested Tuesday an additional week to gather more information and present it at the next meeting.

The second amendment to be discussed was introduced by Robert Clegg. The amendment called for the establishment of a new committee board and student lounge. The amendment was also referred to a committee.

The last amendment was also submitted by Robert Clegg through an Activities Board reccomendation. The motion in question would allow for the creation of a new committee.

Continuing with the policy established in the past, BC has an extensive foreign student program this year.

A major facet of this program is the volunteer tutoring by instructors and people from the community. The purpose of this program is to attract foreign students with their English problems.

Mrs. John Ludorfer, a retired history and English teacher, is the director of the student aid program. The number of tutors on call has not been determined yet. According to Mrs. Ludorfer, there were about 40 on call last year. Mrs. Ludorfer said that they are looking forward to the numbers of "students of the student's home," but "We like the tutoring to be done in the student's home," she said. Mr. Ludorfer also stated that the tutoring program has benefits beyond the obvious. "The tutor is someone that the student can talk to about their problems. The tutor also tends to stimulate the student's interest in the subject they are helping with," added Mrs. Ludorfer.

Green, Frank, "Viewing Four-Year College Impact on BC — Will Benefit Area in Many Ways"
Housing Rules

This year, there are approximately 1000 students attending BC who have been housed offcampus, with no dorm rooms assigned, and rented houses. Yet, none of the available off-campus housing is regulated by the college.

When looking for housing, students must rely solely on the cards provided, either in the placement and housing office or in the administration building. These cards advertise rooms and apartments for rent. On the cards is listed the availability to the student, services available, private or common, whether the room is for one or two people, laundry services available, whether the space is furnished, etc. Listed are privileges and restrictions, and the price.

Since the housing isn’t regulated by the college, prices for rooms are usually in consistent with the facilities provided.

Sometimes the homeowner will charge a difference than the one advertised on the cards or will vary the price from year to year.

Often, what is advertised on the card isn’t actually available to the student when he rents the room, and when a room is rented, rules are enforced which the student wasn’t aware of. Approved housing is rarely needed at BC, but according to Bruce Platon, director of student housing, “We don’t have the manpower at the present to establish housing policies and set up periodic housing checks.”

It’s impossible to determine the number of the family or administrators, but the students.

They may also be unable to solve the situation by improving the housing itself or by improving the housing system. However, this responsibility should be the administration’s, but they could greatly decrease the inconsistencies, now present in the housing system.

Students who are renting rooms advertised in the housing office could provide the checks and balances needed.

There would be found by the administration and filled out by the student renting the room at the end of the year. On this form could be listed the price he paid, and facilities for lack of which he was available to him. The student could also give comments on the rules enforced by the homeowner and suggestions for improving the utilities available.

These student evaluations would greatly assist incoming students when they are searching for a place.

Most students report two or three times during the year, and in his evaluation, he could note his reasons for moving.

These evaluations would not only assist the students interested in housing, but also the homeowners. By letting the homeowners know how they’re doing, the student suggested, the college would assist him in gaining his housing to the need of a student.

Mock Election

Mike Nelson

In last week’s edition of the RENEGADE, an article appeared selecting a series of similarly outstanding ideas involving people’s political opinions.

It wasn’t news, in my opinion, accurately reflecting the mood of the student body. Or, at least accurately reflecting any part of the student body.

I thought, however, they were voicing out loud what can’t be voiced these days at BC: student opinion.

This is what I’m saying: I think there’s a movement among us to express through the voice of the student the real problems we’re living with.

This activity, hopefully, will provide these students with actually working with their peers and fellow students in a non-political environment.

The students who should be involved in this activity are those who should, the editorial section.

There is a voice in this fine land a stock governmental system that doesn’t exactly work. In the midst of this political and economic renaissance in which we are living, it seems that the student needs a voice in the political world.

A campaign, initiated by the opposing forces in the student body, would create a vital forum for the students to express their political views.

If a campaign were to be initiated, with the support of the opposing forces, it would provide an opportunity to foster the idea of student involvement.

The voter is the issue, not the candidate, and the student body, with their concern for individual liberties and freedom of expression, should be aware of this.

The student who is interested should be involved in this activity, and the student who is not, should be involved in this activity.

Duo A Big Hit With BC

by Linda White

Chad Hurst and Jeremy Culp are no strangers to the Bakersfield community. Their music has been a hit at previous events, and they continue to capture the hearts of fans. The duo performed at the recent student event, leaving the audiencerequests screaming for more.

"Instrumental" was sung by Chad Hurst. The song is an moodier version of "Pure," with a few new words added. "It's a song about love and loss," Chad explained. "And it's about moving on from the past and looking towards the future."

"I Love You, Mom" was sung by Jeremy Culp. The song is about a mother's love for her child. "It's a song about the strong bond that exists between a mother and her son," Jeremy said. "And it's about the love and support that a mother gives to her child." The audience was moved by the song, and many requested an encore.

Campus Political Activity Is Needed

"I would note that we must get the point to BC when some issues are important, and that the political environment is changing," said Charles Vondel, BC student. "We need to be more aware of what's going on in our community, and to be more involved."

Chad Hurst, while not a member of a political organization, does have a few suggestions for what BC should do. "We need to have better communication with the administration," Chad said. "And we need to have more political activity on campus."

Kern Slipped

Kern Slipped

Tomorrow will be the centennial celebration for the whole of Kern County. Yet, an integral part of Kern County will be sparsely represented.

BC, the center for higher education in Kern County, "the light of Kern," is a place people have referred to it with only half-true entries in the Kern Centennial Parade.

These entries are the Renegade Band and a spirit squad entity. It should be pointed out that the Renegade Band is the official band for the parade and will lead it. It is the only true representative of BC preceding parading. The spirit squad’s entity is mainly promoting the homecoming game tomorrow with Long Beach.

BC is a minority in the history of Kern County. For the last half century, Kern County and BC has grown and prospered together. BC has educated a substantial portion of the people now occupying jobs in Kern County. Many of the children of Kern County will be educated at BC.

The county has supported the college from its existence and the community of Bakerfield is its staunchest supporter.

Yet, the students at BC haven’t the time to spare to show their appreciation of the support given them for the last 50 years.

No organizations other than the two previously mentioned have taken the time to put in an entry. Even these WAC clubs, those which consider themselves passers at BC and actually prove so, have been put off to take the time to represent BC in the parade.

Many organizations are asking this lack of participation of BC in the centennial celebration–luck of the century. I see one reason: BC has not hesitated to take the time to represent BC in the parade. The students at BC are just operating according to plan, and proceeding as usual. Only those folks off for 100 years seems a bit ridiculous.

It has been brought to our attention that there are still some students who are considering procedures to follow after receiving a parking ticket from campus police.

You have two alternatives when you receive a ticket. One is to appeal it at the business office (Room 315) if you are in student court (which meets every Wednesday at 10:30 a.m.) if you feel the ticket was unjust.

Dear Editor:

I have found that it is pretty exciting, when you are going to show up the "light" at the University of Colmbia at Berkeley. I’ve got some great ideas for your campaign.

One thing I have decided to try is to make the guy don’t look like everyone else. Get all their heads and bring them to the doors of the buildings and the doors of the student center.

This thing is not in the least of luck, and I hope the citizens of California have the forethought to visit people because of this.

It seems to me that the people should be invited to participate and not be asked to do it. The people will be the only ones approved in the end.

Linda Manley

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the treatment of students who are absent from class.

I know that some students are absent from class due to personal reasons, but I believe that the university should have a more comprehensive system for dealing with these situations.

The lack of consistent policies regarding attendance can be harmful to the overall educational experience.

Sincerely,

John Doe

The Renegades have been playing well, but the Vikings have been consistent. The Renegades’ leading scorer tonight will be Senior Ted Christianson, who has scored a total of 20 points in the last three games. The Vikings’ best player is Senior Bob Johnson, who has scored 15 points in the last two games. The game is set to begin at 8 p.m., and it promises to be a thrilling match between two strong teams.

The BC Theatre Opens Thursday With Play Life With Father

Opening the play will be the Proctor Emma Lee, who has been selected for the role of Emma Lee. Miss Lee is a talented actress, and her performance is highly anticipated. The play, which is based on the 1916 novel by Edith Wharton, follows the life of Emma Lee, who is a housewife. The setting is in the early 20th century, and the play is a reflection of the social norms of that time. The play will be performed at the BC Theatre on Thursday, and it promises to be an entertaining evening for the audience.

Stingy Library

This Sunday and next Sunday, BC students will be treated to rare occurrences. Midterms are coming, and to assist students who must use the library for preparation, it will be opened this Sunday and next Sunday until 10 p.m.

This action is long overdue. BC should be operated like a true college, and this includes the library on weekends.

Two years ago the library attempted this, but due to the lack of interest on the part of the students, this action was discontinued. Not enough students were planning to use the library to keep it open.

You, Head Librarian, John Wesley, are passionate about the outcome of this two-week experiment.

The thought that the library is being used to its full advantage by the students during the week—their study habits, the number of people coming, the number of books taken out—has encouraged the administration to extend the hours on the weekends.

If we were willing to say that you would give us a bigger budget, we would. Considering 1200 and only 900 students, it is a very small budget. Possibly the ten students who are in the library at 10 p.m. are all from the same class, and the rest of the 100 students, if any, are in other sections of the same class.

Don't be astonished if the library is closed at 10 p.m. when you know 50 students are all in the library. This is exactly the problem. We are short-handed, and it is expensive for us to keep the library open.

Dear Editor:

In the "Stung Out" incident last week's Wild Bill refused to play his records in the library.

We are both students at BC, Mike Warachka, who works the late-night shift, and I, Linley Brown, who works the late shift. We work at the library and have mutual concerns about the library. Mike mentioned your concern about library hours, and we would like to have a chance to discuss the matter.

Songleaders' Enthusiasm Sparks School Spirit

By Parthena Gilchrist

Baking with enthusiasm, for the first time the school's songleaders have put together a program that is both enjoyable and entertaining for audiences of all ages. The songleaders are composed of the following students:

- Kathy Budziszewski
- Junior

Kathy Budziszewski finds it somewhat hard to hold back.

The songleaders' enthusiasm is not dimmed by their tasks. Their spirit is catching the crowd and it seems as though the Army staids after a winning football game.

God as 'Supreme Being'...

By John Spilsbury

Cadena, Arriaga, Van Camp; Music To Covey's Ears

By Alan Hunt

Renegade cross country mentor Bob Covey considers himself one of the most fortunate coaches a round. Three major reasons for this are Eddie Cadena, Richard Arriaga and Drake Van Camp. Covey describes his leather-legging trio as "probably the finest group of competitors I have ever coached." They all have the innate desire to develop their potential to more from Wason High School. Although currently a question mark because of a "strained achilles tendon," Arriaga has been Covey's number two man thus far this season.

At Wason, Arriaga competed in football, cross country and track. During his first three full semesters at Tigerville, he practiced football through the week, and after a Friday night on the gridiron, ran in cross country meets on Saturday.

Arriaga's best high school mile was 4:38. He logged the two mile in 9:45. Last year at BC he had best times of 4:29 in the mile and 9:39 for the eight. Covey says that Arriaga is "most-improved over the 1965-66 seasons. Drake Van Camp, also a sophomore, is a graduate of North Bakersfield High School. The highlight of his running career to date is the 1966 Metropolitan Conference two mile championship. While competing for North High, Van Camp recorded a 4:38 mile. He was also a mainstay on the Star cross country squad.

Eddie Cadena

The fastest. The coach adds that "these boys love to run." They are Cadena, Arriaga, Van Camp, and in the future, maybe a retinuous Easy Bakersfield Coli- College. Many of Bakersfield College's most successful athletes have squad members who were great as prep. Although these three Renegades did not attend high school, they were not particularly outstanding on a state-wide basis.

Covhey lists as Van Camp's most important asset, "his killer instinct." By this, the Renegade coach means that Van Camp immediately goes to the fore, running first place in any race.

Drake Van Camp

regardless of the number or quality of the competitors.

Any cross country squad would find it difficult to win with competitors merely on the strength of its three front runners. In 1966 Covey has not had to worry about his top men having to do it all.

Currently running out the first seven (as traveling squads) are freshmen Danny Ronquillo, Richard Molinar, John Lopez and Robert Luperos. In that order, Ronquillo and Robert Luperos are alumni of East High, Molinar from South Bakersfield High School, John Lopez, from Shafter. Their continued improvement has forced the Cadena, Arriaga and Van Camp triumvirate to lower its times for maintenance of leadership.

Others who have benefited and run in the front seven are freshmen Tony Gonzalez and Angelo, Molinar from East and sophomore Barry Foose of North.

A CROSS COUNTRY WORKOUT IS - and then more running ... after which a fellow feels kinda tired.

Leatherlungs Journey To Invitational At Mt. SAC

By Joe Gonzalez

Taking time out from conference competition today, the Gaith cross country squad will hit the road to the hilly course of the Mt. SAC Invitational in June 5 of repeating their 1965 victory.

President City College, however, is favored in the large JC division, the same section of the meet as BC. Last year, President came in second to BC 6:18.1.

Other colleges to beat are Los Angeles Pierce, Long Beach, Santa Ana and the best Mt. St. Jov, which drowned BC early in the season.

The invitational, BC coach Bob Covey says, is "described as the World's Largest Foot Race," as approximately 6000 runners will be competing in the various divisions. The large JC division will have from 180 to 200 competitors.

Covey pointed out that Eddie Cadena, BC's first man, holds the Mt. SAC course record 12:31. He also said that "the record will fall. The question is who will break it." Under 21.

"Under 21," Covey believes "will be under 21 minutes. I think Cadena can get under that time," he continued, "but so will several of his opponents." The BC mentor said that the track championship would be a leather at the Gaith's cap but, "It's not critical. If (Richard) Aven and (Richard) Molinar will have some legs, they may not run in the invitational," he continued with. "No excuses will be taken to win. It's not that important." The Gaith competing in the invitational will be Cadena, Arriaga, Dana Van Camp, Dan Ronquillo, Molinar, and John and Robert Luperos. If the men get the two Gaiths out, everyone will be moved up and Tony Gonzales and Augie Munoz will be added to this group of competitors.

Metro Beach, The Gaiths will be going into the invitational tied for the Metro lead. They are shook with Long Beach runners' 15:40. The crucial meet for the conference championship will be on Thursday May 26. BC will host LA and Easy LA. East LA (41) is still in contention even after their loss to the Gaiths last weekend. East LA however, should have to beat BC and LA to tie for the top spot.

BC added two wins to their rec- ord last Friday when they took El Camino 15:50 and Santa Monica 22:49. Cadena, making a habit of coming first and record times broke the four mile Centennial Park course record highspeeds with a time of 19:56. This is the fourth time he has broken in as many meets.
