Fellow Republicans Call Reagan 'Greatest Enemy in 50 Years'

A sweeping attack on Ronald Reagan by a member of his political party has ended one era for the State Board of Education and ushered in another.

The attack came last week by Milton L. Schwartz of Sacramento to the board's vice president. He charged Reagan as being "the greatest enemy that public education has faced in 50 years."

With these remarks — and others equally vitriolic — Schwartz, a Republican, and two Democrats, Dr. Daniel Croll of Stockton and Mrs. Voltz Bates of Sacramento, ended their terms on the board.

Board Divided

All are appointees of former Gov. Edmund Brown, and their actions will leave the 10 member-board equally divided between appointees of Reagan and Brown.

While first votes are not sufficient for the board to take action, they are all that are needed to block action although the board barely in the past has divided a long partisan line.

In addition, there are widespread reports that another Brown appointee, Ben N. Scott, a Harper City Loan official and Democrat, will resign to accept a Reagan appointment to the new Board of Governors of the California Community Colleges.

This possibility would create a 5-5 majority among the Reagan appointees.

Blocking Attack

Schwartz, a lawyer of usually mild demeanor, outlined a blocking attack on the Republican governor and said he was ending his four years on the board with feelings of "sadness, rejection and frustration."

He lashed at Reagan for trimming funds to benefit minorities.

Student Leaders Call McCarthy to Lead

Washington (CPS) — Student body presidents and editors from 166 colleges and universities have signed a statement supporting the Presidential candidacy of Senator Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.) and "other realistic political alternatives."

In the statement 186 presidents and 40 editors said, "we see vigorously supported by Senator Eugene McCarthy's forthright position on the immorality of U.S. involvement in Vietnam and his courageous decision to challenge President Johnson."

They said that "we hope that this example of principle and integrity will not only lead to a change in our government's policies and leaders but will inspire our generation to a renewed sense of dedication and purpose."

Sam Brown, a Harvard divinity student who led the effort to gather signatures for the statement, said the phrase about supporting other political alternatives "is aimed at those who might wish to support other war opponents, such as Senators George McGovern (D-S.D.) and Stephen Young (D-Ohio), who may run as favorites, as well as those who might support Senator Robert F. Kennedy (D.N.Y.) or a Republican."

"It said that about 20 or 80 percent of these who were asked "in the statement signed this Tuesday."

Admits the statement's characterization of President Johnson's war policies as "increasingly bankrupt," all three of the schools from University, Austin, College, and Southern Methodist University — from Johnson's home state who were asked signed the statement.

Those who did not sign felt that little could be done to change the war through elections or that as "student-body" presidents they shouldn't take political positions of favored Republican candidates. "No one rejected the statement because he supported Johnson," Brown said. He also doubted that as many student body presidents would have supported Senator Kennedy.

The signers include schools of wide variety in size, amount of (Cont. on p. 3)

Student government moved shrewdly into gear early again this week as new club presidents and newly elected officers met in Activities Board and Board of Regents to devise the slate of student monies and activities.

"ASB Vice President Dave Ed- wards, chairman of the Activities Board, stated in his election campaign, that he wanted the 'Activities Board to take on a more leadership role in campus af- fairs," and calls for a "new commu- nication system between clubs."

He found out rapidly that he has a job in store as only 13 of 49 club presidents bothered to show up for the meeting, lacking a quorum by two.

With no quorum, the board could not conduct any business other than several discussion Edwards requested what he wanted to see the Activities Board do during the present year, calling for a deeper commitment and action. He did, however, give the board's approval to two requests by Executive Committee.

In another board action, a repre- sentative of the Board of Trust- ees was requested to come to be- lieve at a meeting and the Mid- term Leadership Conference was postponed to February 24.

The following day, David Brooker, a fourth-year rep favorite, tried his parliamentary wings when he confidently opened the first Board of Representatives meeting for the spring semester. Reports were made to the Presi- dent and Committee and President's cabinet appointments fol- lowed and were approved.

DEG Action
ASB Vice-President Dave Edwards has brought into the area of student government a revolutionary method of club evaluation. While attending a National Conference of student leaders in Chicago, DEG members heard a new process known as Death Education Group (DEG) was to be tested.

Edwards has suggested to the 40 clubs on campus that they utilize the DEG method of club evaluation. The DEG method involves classified, and made relevant to the student and the ASB government. The methods DEG proposed by individuals who have committed themselves to the solution of a particular problem. The DEG method makes it possible for the DEG to address the areas of agreement and disagreement, articulated in the value judgments which underlie the disagreements.

More Human World
Continuing, the DEG method of understanding the critical questions, DEG's will then design procedures that may lead to solution of the problem. They will then instruct the clubs: "Let's act now!"

The process is centered around one of the principles of DEG's action: "Let's act now!" As a possible solution to club problems, the DEG members are going through a "humanistic experience" concerning the lack of student interest in club activities.

"Because it is the job of individual clubs to instigate students, the guilt of the situation falls with the clubs. The clubs must make their organizations relevant to the students. The clubs must be able to articulate the commitment for which they fight. Then they should be able to come closer to understanding the clubs acting representatives.

HUNDREDS of students at BC are involved in club activity, some 250 clubs are listed in the BC Calendar. The number of members is exactly what is needed, if the club's purpose has been changed, then it is a simple matter to alter the club constitution.

Perhaps club activity at BC has bogged to a standstill exactly because the clubs are not doing something worthwhile. Perhaps the clubs are not doing anything worthwhile, and the members see the clubs' worth and follow it through.

Students in Favor of Transplants

By Jerry Morris

"Whatever tempts with the heart and mind is good and wholesome."

There is a legal definition of death, some doctors are holding on to the idea of transplanting organs is an ethical issue.

Despite these concerns, there are those who argue that the decision of whether or not to transplant organs should be based on the patient's wishes and the potential for recovery.

"The donation of organs is a compassionate act, saving lives and improving the quality of life for those in need." said Dr. Edward Johnson, a transplant surgeon.

Despite the ethical debates, the demand for transplantable organs continues to grow, and the need for a consistent policy on organ donation remains.

In England, there was a case last week where a young man was convicted of stealing a large sum of money from a bank. The accused had tricked his way into the bank and, using a clever scheme, had managed to get away with the money undetected. The case shocked many people, and it raised questions about the role of technology in crime.

The victim, a wealthy businessman, had left his bank account open and unattended while he was away on a business trip. The accused, a skilled hacker, had used the bank's online banking system to transfer the money into his own account. When the businessman returned home, he noticed that his account was empty and reported the theft to the police.

The police launched a complex investigation, which involved analyzing data from the bank's security cameras, tracing the movements of the accused, and comparing handwriting on bank documents. After months of hard work, the police were able to identify the accused and bring him to justice.

The case highlights the importance of being cautious when it comes to technology and it serves as a reminder to always keep an eye on our bank accounts. It also serves as a warning to those who may be tempted to use technology to commit crimes, as they will not escape the clutches of law enforcement.

Budget Controversy

Whether or not to make abortion a criminal offense is a topic that has been debated for years. The issue is highly contentious and has divided opinions across the country.

In recent months, there has been a renewed effort to make abortion illegal. The proposal, which is supported by many conservative legislators, claims that it is necessary to protect the rights of the unborn. Opponents argue that it is a violation of women's rights and goes against the principles of reproductive freedom.

The debate over abortion is not new. It has been a contentious issue for decades, with many laws being passed and overturned in the process. The current proposal is just the latest in a long line of attempts to restrict access to abortion.

In conclusion, the issue of abortion is a complex one and it requires careful consideration. It is important to remember that it is a personal decision and that each individual should be able to make choices about their own bodies. It is also important to ensure that women have access to the resources and support they need to make informed decisions.

Dorms Reported in Bad Condition States Board of Representatives

"We could ask the six dorms six questions, and if we never get an answer, we are not going to ask them," said a student at a recent meeting of the state board of representatives.

"We have been asking these questions for years, and we have never gotten a satisfactory response," said another student. "It is time to take action and demand better for our students.

The six dorms in question are all located on the east side of campus, and they are known for their poor condition. Many students have reported mold and mildew problems, as well as issues with plumbing and heating.

The state board of representatives has been asked to take action on these matters, but they have yet to do so. The students are growing frustrated and are calling for change.

The Renegade grapplers travel to El Camino today for the first Conference Tournament in a few downing Rio Hondo last Friday 42-32.

The Gades definitely have a good chance of bringing back the championship trophy, but it will take an outstanding effort to edge out the defending champs

By JIM BULL

Cerritos v BC

The tournament figures to be another nip and tuck battle between Cerritos and the Gades as it has been the past couple of seasons.

The Gades have several individual talents who could be champions in their weight class and they have several others who should place very high. The grapplers who are being counted on the most to come through with championship honors are Herb Quiney in the 135 lb. class, Joe Nigos at 147 lbs. Tom Estrada in the 115 lb. and Tom Belewsky wrestling in the heavyweight division.

Cerritos' chance of being a champ are high because he has defeated everybody in his weight class in the conference, this season and there is no reason why he shouldn't do it again. Nigos has also defeated all of his opponents. Estrada will have to go a little harder than the Gade's other possible champs, but he is cold to perfection.

Tom Roby will be hindered in case of the fact that he hasn't worked much in the past month, but he should still battle his way to a championship.

The other Gades, Karl Herrera, Alan Roberts, Ruben Ramirez and Art Dorrah should get second places or maybe not lower than third.

BC Defeats Rio Hondo

The Gades lost to Rio Hondo easily last Fri. 43-3. The Roadrunners helped make it easier for the Gades by letting them off so they forfeited five matches.

Herrera and Dorrah are the Roadrunners state champ, and from them on it was the Gades all the way. The Roadrunners forfeited 115 lbs., 137 lbs., 197 lbs., 177 lbs. and the best decision in the bugzack Rio Hondo last week.

The Gades picked up a win in the Bantam but it is evident their opponent 70 Rubin Ramires then climbed with a near victory in the 165 lb. class.

Rocky Bridges and Joe Nigos followed by shutting out their opponents 40 and 130 respectively.

Tom Estrada trailed back and forth with his opponent for a while then he stuck him to end the match.
