Symbolic Family Portrayed
In Drama Opening Tonight

Tonight in the Bakersfield College Theatre, the story of the human heart will be portrayed. The title of the play is "The Thing," a work which presents man’s emotional life, a confrontation of love and hate. The director of the play is Helen Brown.

The play is based on the life of a young woman named Martha, who is in love with a young man, John. However, John is married to another woman, Elizabeth. Martha becomes pregnant and decides to have an abortion. The play explores the themes of love, loss, and the consequences of one’s actions.

The cast includes: John, played by Jack Smith, Elizabeth, played by Emily Turner, and Martha, played by Sarah Johnson.

The play opens at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and at 2 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are available at the box office and online at the Bakersfield College Theatre website.

BLACK FISTS IMPLY

by John Johnson

Here comes another political poll to trouble the administration. It has been announced that in the next election nearly all the votes will be cast by Negroes. This is probably true. That isn't too important.

Rebels Aim Poor

by Charles Pickman

In playing college administrations, the campus rebels are losing. This is shown by the recent statistics of Negroes in the schools. The proportion of Negro students has dropped in the last few years.

SPARRING VOTES

by Donald Smiley

The recent statistics of Negroes in the schools show a decline. This is due to the fact that Negroes have become less interested in education.

About That Election

As a rule to the growing fear of the past, the Big would like to comment on the situation of our present and future leaders.

Because we are members of the press, we are able to see the problem only as the public do. But the Big is not a spectator, and is therefore able to see the problem as the public do.

Looking first perhaps our individual eyes, we see that the press must be the people's eyes. We must be the people's eyes, and we must also be the people's ears.

As everyone of course knows, the press is the public's eyes and ears. We have a right to be concerned about what will be done to us, and we have a right to be concerned about what is happening to us.

This is the first in a series of articles in which we will present our views on the situation of our country and the world. We believe that we have a right to be concerned about the situation of our country and the world.

Judicial System Changed

The California Supreme Court's decision to change the law by altering the definition of "unlawful" in its interpretation of the Family Code has had an effect on the manner in which the judicial system operates.

Faculty Committee Okays Freedoms

The Faculty Committee has approved a proposal to allow students to have more freedom of speech and expression in the classroom.

Vacations Foreseen

The college will be closed for the upcoming vacation period, and all students are encouraged to make arrangements accordingly.

One college does more than broaden horizons. It sails to them, and beyond.

Wealth of Culture

In this day when politics seems to be taking over the news, one finds it comforting to think of the enjoyment of cultural activities. There is plenty to be played on the campuses of BC. Currently, a series of photographs taken by the late Robert Fin. A. are being displayed in the library for five years at BC. This will be an opportunity to the student to view the pictures according to their own tastes. The plays are in both a visual and auditory style, an ample measure of the creative activities.

According to the creative director of the culture club, the purpose of the arrangement is to give the students a chance to think about their own interests. The library's public display space hosts these shows, a place where people can enjoy art and culture. The theme is open to as many as seven plays each season, and the students are encouraged to submit their work.

The BC College Club Group has a series of plays for the coming seasons, including a performance of "The Last Word" by the University of British Columbia. The play emphasizes the effects of those plays, and it is great to acknowledge the value of cultural talent, amateurism, and appreciation for all the groups and campuses.

Who's for Nixon

by: Dick Adams

The National Security Agency, the JCS, the CIA, the State Department, and the Department of Defense, all points towards Nixon. The only question is why. It is still not clear how far the Nixon administration is willing to go to win the war against the communists, and whether the American people will support such actions. It is a question of whether the Nixon administration is willing to make the tough decisions to win the war.

The world is filled with a variety of cultures, each with their own unique perspectives on life. It is important to recognize and respect these differences, as they can provide us with valuable insights into the ways of thinking and living of other cultures. It is also important to acknowledge the importance of these cultures, as they can help us to understand our own culture and how it has evolved over time.

The Volkswagen with the automatic stick shift.

Used to be, Volkswagens were enough to make even some of the smartest drivers say: "Oh, is that all?" But that was before the automatic was made available in big-time cars. It's a stick 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and it's a stick 30 miles an hour. And it's automatic too. It takes all the guesswork out of driving a stick shift and makes it easier than driving a manual car.
