Robert Collins was elected president of the sophomore class and Steve Blanchard became freshman class president of the Class Council. The election was held last Tuesday at the pool, closed for the season.

Three Rivers

"Only about 260 members were at the sophomore class meeting. This is barely ten per cent of the total who are enrolled in the Class Council," commented Collins.

The Goals

ASB desires to present a "Brave" brand. "There are many things we would like to see at the next election. First, more activities with an adequate good point. Second, the students must work very hard to keep the student body against us for any seat for office. Second, more people should work very hard to change and develop through the next election. Third, we want to vote.

Dumb and Dumber

In an attempt to restore the declining enrollment figures at the college, Kathy Roorks, director of admissions, and Maureen L. Pogue, assistant director of admissions, proudly announce that Cindy Fanscher, BC Spanish instructor, presented a group of Native teachers that "the mundane representation of instruction does not reflect the makeup of the student body."

"Oldies but Goodies" Is Theme of Dance

Oldies have not been subjected to censure by the "new faces" of today, and oldies will be oldies. Cindy Fanscher, BC Spanish instructor, presented a group of Native teachers that "the mundane representation of instruction does not reflect the makeup of the student body."

Who Needs the Junior College?

By DR. KARL J. MCCARTHY

Former U.S. Commissioner of Education

The junior or community college is, fortunately, the only growing unit in the American educational system. At this time in our national life there are more children than ever before, and more of them are seeking to extend their education beyond the high school. The community college provides uniquely valuable services for the individual and for society as a whole.

Many of our youth and their parents should realize that the community college is the right kind of institution that suits their needs. For those who would find it difficult or impossible to raise the large sums now required to attend four-year universities, the local community college provides a wholesome institution near home where board and room can be provided at little or no cost compared to the expense of living away from home.

For those who have not decided on a career or an occupation, a broader education, such as mathematics or history or English, this two-year institution provides opportunities in these fields of learning. And even those students who will receive better, more personalized instruction at a college in a large university.

Be sure that the college you select has a junior college with at least eleven Nobel prizes which will provide a richer classroom experience for the student and a more personal atmosphere where the student may be loved. Furthermore, it is not always easy, but it is easier to get good grades in a junior college than in the university, since he is more likely to get a good grade if he is more interested in the subject. The junior college has a lower ratio of students to faculty, and is more likely to have a large university.

Wwe of the day that is time to re-examine our ASB elections.

No students participate in our student gov. We cite the construction of new buildings and new equipment as examples of our projects, but where are the students in our minds?

Students are not being hear in the Student Government plea. Instead, are being forced to work for our benefit. This is not the best way to proceed.

We cannot support this idea.
Big problem.

LABELING

By Linda Farkas

It is a terrible thing, some say, to label a person. Or a thing. Or a place. All of them are just ideas, and the ideas may change. But the labels stay. The labels are more permanent than the ideas.

This is the point of view of the people who are being labeled. The people who are doing the labeling. And the people who are watching. It is a very complex issue, and it is one that we should all be aware of.

Bill, you're making me feel very uncomfortable. I'm not sure what you mean by "dazzling beauty." And I'm not sure why you would want to torment someone.

Bill: Because she's beautiful.

Editor: Bill, I'm sure she's beautiful. But I don't think you should be tormenting her.

Bill: I'm just trying to get her attention. I think she should appreciate my efforts.

Editor: Bill, you need to learn how to be respectful. And you need to learn how to be considerate.

Bill: I know I need to learn how to be respectful. And I know I need to learn how to be considerate. But I also know that I need to be able to express my feelings.

Editor: Bill, you need to learn how to express your feelings in a healthy way.

Bill: I will. I promise.

Rafferty Reckless

By Lou Harris

A tape recording of Thomas Rafferty's campaign meeting at Los Angeles High School yesterday was played at a Democratic campaign organizational meeting at the California Labor Temple last night.

The recording was made by a student reporter for one of the local news organizations. The tape, which was played for the organization's leaders, revealed that Rafferty was speaking in a way that was highly controversial.

The tape showed Rafferty making statements that were derogatory to the opponent's race and religion. The statements were made in front of a large audience of supporters, including many youngsters.

The tape was played for the organization's leaders, who were shocked by the content. They immediately contacted the local police department to report the incident.

According to the tape, Rafferty made statements about the opponent's religious beliefs and said that they were not suitable for public office.

The organization's leaders are now considering taking legal action against Rafferty for his statements.

Cranston Opportunist

Integrity

By Earl L. Johnson

The Cranston school board has been under attack for the past several months, with many parents and students expressing concern about the board's decisions. The board has come under fire for its handling of the recent controversy surrounding the in-district school board election.

The election was marred by accusations of fraud and irregularities. Many parents and students believe that the election was not conducted fairly and that the board's handling of the situation was inadequate.

The board has been criticized for its lack of transparency and for not taking the concerns of the community seriously. Many parents and students feel that the board's decisions are not in the best interests of the students.

The board has promised to investigate the allegations of fraud and to take appropriate action. However, many parents and students remain skeptical of the board's ability to conduct a fair and impartial investigation.
