Thoughts of Children on a Day of Mourning

The thoughts of children on a day of mourning are often difficult to express. It's a day when they are expected to give their best, but it's also a day when they are expected to show their sensitivity and understanding of the situation. It's a day when they are expected to be strong, but it's also a day when they are expected to be vulnerable. It's a day when they are expected to be happy, but it's also a day when they are expected to be sad.

"Sex education? Not for MY kids!"

To the Editor:

I was surprised to see the cover story about the sexual revolution. I believe that sex education should be left to the parents and not the schools. The schools should stick to education and not interfere with family matters.
