Steve J. Ryan, President

ASB President

Mike Vandy, Secretary

ASB Secretary

If elected, I will attempt to represent the interests of those students who experience discrimination due to their race, gender, sexual orientation, or any other socially recognized identity. I will aim to make ASB a place where everyone feels included and respected. I will work towards creating an inclusive environment where all students can thrive.

VOLUME XXXIV NUMBER 19

Transferable New ethnic courses proposed

Suggestion for adding new ethnic studies courses at the University of California, Bakersfield is being made by the Office of Ethnic Studies. Ethnic studies courses are designed to provide students with an understanding of the history, culture, and current issues of different ethnic groups. The courses will be offered in various departments, including History, Sociology, and Political Science.

In addition to the new ethnic studies courses, the Office of Ethnic Studies is working on developing a new ethnic studies major. This major will provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the history, culture, and current issues of different ethnic groups. The major will be available to all students, regardless of their major.

Dr. Mueller Rites Held

Funeral services for Dr. Calvin "Cal" Huffman, 62, were held on November 29, 1970 in the chapel of the ASB offices. Dr. Huffman passed away on November 25, 1970 after a brief illness. He was well-known for his contributions to the field of education and his dedication to his students.

The funeral was attended by many friends and colleagues of Dr. Huffman. The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. David L. McDonald, the ASB chaplain. The eulogy was delivered by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Huffman. The service concluded with a brief address by the Rev. Dr. Donald L. McDonald, the ASB chaplain.

BSU OPINION

'Mud is for Hogs'

I have always been surprised at the way citizens of this college seem to be obsessed with the "mud" of the playing field. I have seen the mud of the playing field in some very muddy games, and I have seen the mud of the playing field in some very dry games. But the mud is always there, whether it is dry or wet. And I have always wondered why people seem to be so obsessed with it.

The first time I saw the mud of the playing field, it was during a game between the Huskies and the Boise State Broncos. The field was soggy, and the mud was everywhere. It was a horrid sight, and it made me wonder why people would go to the trouble of playing a game on a muddy field.

I have also seen the mud of the playing field during a game between the Huskies and the Idaho State Bengals. The field was dry, and the mud was nowhere to be found. But the mud was still there, waiting to be played on.

I have always been surprised at the way people seem to be so obsessed with the mud of the playing field. It is just mud, after all. And I have always wondered why people would go to the trouble of playing a game on a muddy field, when there are so many other places where they could play a game without having to deal with the mud.

Mineral King—Yes!

by Marjory Gunning

There is no need of authorizing Loma Prieta Region Naturalists (LPRN) to express its protest against the Li-Non-Minerals Corporation’s development of mineral mining on the Mineral King area of Sequoia National Park. The Li-Non-Minerals Corporation’s plan to mine for copper on the Mineral King area is a direct threat to the environment and the natural resources of the park.

Mineral King, a part of Sequoia National Park, is an area of great natural beauty. It has been designated as a wilderness area to protect its pristine environment. The Li-Non-Minerals Corporation’s plan to mine for copper on this area would destroy the natural beauty of the area and would have a negative impact on the natural resources of the park.

Moreover, the Li-Non-Minerals Corporation’s plan to mine for copper on Mineral King is not in line with the National Park Service’s policy of protecting and preserving the natural resources of the park. The National Park Service is committed to protecting the natural resources of the park and has a policy of not allowing mining in wilderness areas.

The LPRN is concerned about the impact of the Li-Non-Minerals Corporation’s plan on the environment and the natural resources of the park. We urge the National Park Service to take steps to prevent the Li-Non-Minerals Corporation from proceeding with its plan to mine for copper on Mineral King.

Mineral King is a natural treasure that must be protected for future generations to enjoy. We urge the National Park Service to take action to prevent the Li-Non-Minerals Corporation from mining on Mineral King.

NELSON'S FIND: FAIR RIPS FOES

by FREDDIE LEWIS

It's not easy to decipher when your opponent has a high .300 or .400 average. But someone knew. Mike Eaves averaged. Actually, he was a lot closer to a son of the. Nelson was his name. He had a hit or help from that, not able to him being playing.

"You say," he exclaimed, "I have to really struggle with the foul tips. I have a lot of trouble. But even on the bench, Eaves never wanted to be anything but BC basketball. He must have been. Nelson was a great hitter, no doubt about it. He was a .300-hitter for us. He could drive in runs and hit home runs.

Another question was his mental strength. "He was mentally tough. He didn't get discouraged easily. He had a lot of character.

One look around Gandy Ridgeway's locker can go a long way to telling you something about him. Beside the usual clutter of assorted athletic gear, rests a lone picture: it's out of the 1970's. A photo of his high school baseball team. The picture is of Freddie's signature of Ridgeway's hero, one Freddie Blaise.

For the uninitiated, the uncut Jack Russell Terrier/Beagle/terrier mix, Ridgeway and a host of other professional surfing-graffiti artists, who might want to use Blaise's mascot, have done so for the pro mat circuit what Howard Hughes did for dogs for Las Vegas.

When Freddie included his surfing-graffiti antics to bring down any rapists in Ridgeway's Smith, Ridgeway, riders, posted on his sign, that, privately, following the platinum corridor's showmanship, munching on your own ears.

Through Ridgeway, the entire football team followed Blaise's exploits from week to week during practices. Each capacity crowd was on hand at the arena the night Freddie (No. 1 rated in World Wide polls) met the then No. 1 rated Ridgeway in the state of Michigan.

We haven't seen Ridgeway take blue in the face of too many enemy hitters, but when Blaise grappled the all-Metro guided by the throat and pretended to go into his exhibition scheme, where, could he do to keep from fanning.

Even with Ridgeway's bringing Blaise into prominence in the bubble and on campus, BC still lags behind Fresno where the Freddie Blaise Fan Club is the largest organization on campus. As far as eight school day programs, Blaise has been elected honorary student body president.

This reporter invited the fearless one to his probation last year, something Ridgeway will try to do his inviting of the favorite football banquet.
