Pollution Solution Needed

Several anti-pollution programs have been set in motion around the country. One of the most popular is the nationwide "No Bra" campaign, which encourages people to avoid wearing any kind of clothing that might block air flow. The campaign was started by a group of environmentalists who believe that the air we breathe is not as pure as we once thought. They are hoping to raise awareness about the need for cleaner air by encouraging people to leave their homes without any kind of protection.
