ASB shunned?

GSU charter temporarily blocked

The administration has openly shown a lack of support for the ASB.

With that said, ASB President Vernon Anderson claimed the general feeling of frustration that, although his student representatives have stood at last week’s school board meeting, no ASB students were on Stage.

"The lack of the administration is due to what rights or can be unchartered, and if you feel they should do that, there’s nothing you can do about it," Anderson said.

The vice president, in his two-year term, has been working in the administration for the first time.

"We have been trying to get on the board of Reps to discuss the administration, but they refused," said Roy G. Chilmin, vice president of Reps.

President James L. Collins, although previously urged the board to allow the ASB to air its grievances, has not yet met with the ASB.

"I have been discussing the matter with the principal," Anderson said. "But I don’t want to impede the administration in any way, but I believe they need to hear our views.

The administration currently does not have a plan for how to handle the situation, and that is what the ASB is concerned about.

"We want to know what the administration’s plan is for handling the situation," Anderson said. "But we have not heard anything from them.

Romeo and Juliet: an updated version

By Janice Bilalock

Romeo and Juliet was written by William Shakespeare in the year 1595. It is a play that explores the themes of love, fate, and the consequences of the choices one makes. The play is set in Verona, Italy, where two families are engaged in a long-standing feud.

In this updated version, the story takes place in modern-day Verona, where Romeo and Juliet are high school students. The feud between the Montagues and the Capulets is represented by the two rival high schools, East High and West High.

Romeo is a football captain at East High, and Juliet is a SMART (Student Multicultural Association Representative) at West High. Their relationship blossoms under the watchful eyes of their respective families and the school administration.

When the two families decide to hold a prom to end the feud, Romeo and Juliet face many challenges. They must hide their relationship from their families and keep it secret from the rest of their classmates.

Despite the obstacles, Romeo and Juliet fall deeply in love. The play explores the themes of love, fate, and the consequences of the choices one makes, just as the original version did.

The play is performed in modern-day language and includes elements of contemporary pop culture. The audience is encouraged to reflect on the timeless themes of love and the consequences of our actions.

In this updated version of Romeo and Juliet, the audience is reminded that love knows no bounds, and that the choices we make can have a lasting impact on our lives and the lives of those around us.

BC hosts state Chicano conference

By MARK CROSS

Our society has been characterized by the conflict between Black and White. This conflict has led to the establishment of Black Power movements, which in turn have sought to address the issues of discrimination and segregation. While the Black Power movement has been successful in raising awareness of these issues, it has also faced criticism for its violent tactics and its disregard for the rights of others. The Chicano movement, on the other hand, has sought to address these issues through peaceful means, and has been successful in creating a sense of community among Chicano people.

Piano trio program

The Bakersfield College Music Department and Encore of Kern will present a piano trio program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Main Building auditorium. The concert is free and open to the public. The program will open with Tchaikovsky's Piano Trio in E minor. The second movement will be Chopin's Piano Trio in C minor. The final movement will be the Allegro Vivace of Schumann's Piano Trio in A minor. The group will be composed of three students from the Bakersfield College music department. The concerts last year were well received, and tickets are expected to sell quickly.

Working men's choir and cello orchestra

Two concerts are scheduled this month for the working men's choir and cello orchestra. The first concert, scheduled for Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m., will feature a variety of music, including pieces by Bach, Mendelssohn, and Tchaikovsky. The second concert, scheduled for Dec. 18 at 7:30 p.m., will feature a more contemporary selection, including pieces by Mozart, Beethoven, and Brahms. Both concerts are free and open to the public.

The Bakersfield College campus will be buzzing with activity this month as students prepare for the upcoming semester. With classes starting Jan. 4, the campus will be filled with students studying and socializing. The Philosophy Department is offering a variety of courses, including "Introduction to Philosophy," "History of Western Philosophy," and "Philosophy of Science." The Speech Development program is also offering a range of courses, including "Speech for Business," "Public Speaking," and "Voice and Diction." The Department of Fine Arts is offering a variety of courses, including "Introduction to Painting," "Introduction to Sculpture," and "Introduction to Photography." The Music Department is also offering a variety of courses, including "Introduction to Music," "History of Western Music," and "Improvisation." With so many options available, there is something for everyone at Bakersfield College.

Press freedom threatened

Today, withstanders, editors and freedom lovers of America's college, university, and high school publications are celebrating "Press Freedom Week." The purpose of the week is to emphasize freedom of the press and the importance of a free press in a democratic society. The week is being observed in honor of the National News. This is a day when the press is able to function freely and express its views without fear of government interference. It is a reminder that the press is a vital part of our society and that the freedom to express ideas and opinions freely is essential to a healthy democracy.

Sometimes, as soon as you get the feeling that social issues are being properly debated on campus, you are met with a barrage of criticism and allegations. This is particularly true when the issues involve social justice and equality. The criticism often comes from those who feel threatened by the ideas being discussed. It is important to remember that social issues are complex and that there are many different perspectives on them. It is also important to listen to all sides of the argument and to consider the evidence carefully. When discussing social issues, it is important to be respectful and to avoid making personal attacks.

Transcendental meditation club forms on campus

The Transcendental Meditation Club has recently formed on campus. The club provides an opportunity for students to explore the practice of transcendental meditation, which is a technique for achieving a state of deep relaxation and inner peace. The club meets weekly to practice meditation, and members are encouraged to attend as many meetings as they can. The club is open to students of all backgrounds and is sponsored by the university's Center for Spiritual Life. If you are interested in learning more about transcendental meditation, you are welcome to join the club.

Romeo and Juliet cast acclaimed

The cast of "Romeo and Juliet" has been acclaimed for its excellent performances. The actors have received praise for their ability to bring the characters to life and to convey the emotional depth of the story. The cast has been working hard to perfect their roles, and their hard work has paid off. The show is set to open next week, and audiences are already excited to see what the cast has in store.

Pepsi's got a lot to give

Pepsi is offering a generous donation to the food bank. The donation will help to provide food for those in need, and it is a great example of how businesses can support their communities. If you would like to help support the food bank, you can donate to them directly or by participating in the Pepsi promotion. By doing so, you can help to ensure that everyone has access to the food they need to thrive.

The Royal Lichtenstein Circus

'A new concept in shopping center attractions'

By PETE DANIELSON

Say the words "The Royal Lichtenstein Circus" and shopping center managers around the country get excited. If you can't, then nothing can be done.

Last Tuesday, several hundred BC students heard that something called the Lichtenstein circus (a concept in shopping center attractions) was coming to town. Everyone wanted to see it. Even the janitors were excited. The performance was unprecedented, but it served its purpose.

"The circus is a unique form of entertainment," said the group leader, Nick Weber. "It's a way for people to get out of their comfort zone and experience something new."

Weber went on to explain that the circus involves a series of events that take place in and around the shopping center. Performances include acrobatics, magic tricks, and clowns. "We want to create a fun and exciting atmosphere for people to enjoy," Weber said.

The concept of the Royal Lichtenstein Circus is to bring a sense of wonder and excitement to the shopping center. "It's a way for people to escape the daily grind and be entertained," Weber added.

The group plans to perform on a regular basis, with shows scheduled throughout the week. "We want to make sure there's always something happening," Weber said.

So the next time you're at the shopping center, be sure to check out the Royal Lichtenstein Circus. You won't be disappointed!

Health science on display

The Department of Health Science at Bakersfield College has announced a special display in the BC Library Building to promote women in the Health Sciences profession.

According to Clark Burks, Instructor of Radiologic Technology at BC, the display represents the four areas of the Health Science Department: General Auditing, Medical Office Auditing, Licensed Vocational Nursing, and Radiologic Technology.

"We are eager students to learn," Bakersfield, "they are wonderful," said Mrs. Burks. "We can train students fast enough to fill the needs of the area, but the need is outstripping the supply."

The display shows the equipment used in the field, the educational programs available, and the career opportunities that are available to students.

Handicapped students

By LINDA PANZER

The number of handicapped students at Bakersfield College has increased dramatically in recent years. According to Linda Panzer, Associate Director of Student Services, the college has implemented several initiatives to support and accommodate these students.

"We are proud to offer a variety of accommodations and services to ensure that all students have equal access to education," said Panzer. "Our goal is to provide a supportive and inclusive environment for all students."
