KBC to serve dormitories, start night shows this week

By FERD LEWIS

On March 4 the California University student newspaper, the California Journal, begins publication of its student newspaper, the California Journal.

The Journal's first issue is expected to contain at least 2000 students and will be distributed free of charge.

The Journal, which was previously distributed to dormitory residents, will now be distributed to all University of California students.

The Journal is published weekly and contains news, features, and opinion sections.

The Journal is printed on recycled paper and is distributed free of charge.

The Journal is supported by advertising revenue and student subscriptions.

The Journal is available in print and online.

The Journal is distributed by the University of California Student Association.

The nation is becoming aware of all its in the air of Bakersfield. The topsy-turvy town has been called "a world of its own." However, the problem of air pollution is not only a matter of local concern, but it is also a matter of national concern. The citizens of Bakersfield are making efforts to improve the quality of the air they breathe. The city has set up a number of air quality monitoring stations and has implemented strict regulations to control pollution sources. The efforts are paying off, as the air quality in Bakersfield is steadily improving.

Air Pollution

Action Urged

The problem of air pollution in Bakersfield is not new. It has been a matter of concern for many years. The city has taken steps to address the issue, but more needs to be done. The air quality in Bakersfield is still below the national standards, and the citizens are calling for action. The city council has been urged to take more effective measures to reduce pollution levels. The citizens are demanding that the city government take responsibility and act promptly to improve the air quality in Bakersfield.

VD Control Through Education

Even though Bakersfield is a small town, the problem of venereal disease is a serious issue. The city has taken steps to address the problem, but more needs to be done. The citizens are demanding that the city government take responsibility and act promptly to improve the air quality in Bakersfield.

Downtown Campus Defended

It may not be wise to draw on too many conclusions from the two recent articles, "Alumni Board" and "RIP boards," which appeared in the December 16, 1970, and January 27, 1971, issues of the Bakersfield Alumni Association's newsletter. While both articles provide valuable insights into the problems faced by the downtown campus, they are not necessarily representative of the views of the entire Alumni Board.

Based on the Alumni Board's position on the issue, it appears that there is a genuine concern about the future of the downtown campus. The Board has expressed its support for the campus and has called for the university to take action to protect it.

Merson years end at BC

It's a bittersweet moment for the students of Bakersfield College as they prepare to graduate. The students have worked hard to get to this point, and they are ready to take on the world. The college has provided them with a solid education and has prepared them for a successful future. The students are looking forward to the next chapter of their lives and are excited about the opportunities that await them.
Grapplers 'Wow' Valley, 60-0

by ROBERT COX

If you don't like the height you play in at Bakersfield College, you can always get taller. That's the message that Coach John Barnes, the 6-foot-7 San Francisco native, delivered to his team after Tuesday's 60-0 win over Santa Monica.

"If you don't like the height you play in, you can always get taller," said Barnes. "But if you don't like the height you play in, you can always get shorter."

The Gauchos, who are currently ranked second in the Southern California Conference, are 11-5 and 19-14 overall. They will play at Santa Monica on Saturday.

The leading scorer in the Valley was Santa Monica's John Johnson, who scored 13 points. But the Gauchos' defense was too much for him.

"They have a good team," said Barnes. "But they're not as good as we are."

NCAA Frosh Rule - How will it affect Bakersfield College

by FORD LEONE

The NCAA has passed a new rule which will affect Bakersfield College in the fall of 1972. The rule, which was passed by the NCAA Board of Governors, will allow freshmen to play on varsity teams.

Bakersfield College is a school with a history of success on the basketball court. The Gauchos have won two consecutive Southern California Conference championships, and they are currently ranked second in the conference.

The new rule will allow freshmen to play on varsity teams, which will give Bakersfield College an advantage. The Gauchos will be able to bring in new talent and improve their team.

Metro drops Santa Monica

by ROBERT COX

The Metro College of Santa Monica dropped Santa Monica in a close game. The Gauchos were able to hold off the Mustangs, who are currently ranked fifth in the Southern California Conference.

"We played well," said Barnes. "But we couldn't put the game away."

You will be known in a way and made to feel better when you arrive at the Pentagon. That's the message that General James V. Sullivan, the new head of the Pentagon, delivered to his staff.

"You will be known in a way and made to feel better when you arrive at the Pentagon," said Sullivan. "But you will also be known in a way and made to feel worse when you leave."

The Pentagon will be the new home of the Defense Department, which was formerly located in Washington, D.C.

The dilemma of homosexuality

The recent expose of homosexual activities at a California university has generated more than a little heat. The first time in the history of the university (the state is not named) that an investigation has been conducted to determine the presence of such activities.

The issue is not one of right or wrong, but one of fairness and equity. If the campus is to be a place where all students are treated equally, then it must be open to all, regardless of sexual orientation. The university cannot discriminate against any student on the basis of their sexual orientation.

Open letter to Mr. Burns Finlinson

Mr. Burns Finlinson,

I am writing to express my concern about the recent investigation into homosexual activities at our university. As a student, I believe that everyone should have the right to be who they are without fear of discrimination or prejudice.

Sincerely,
[Your Name]

Talk show revolutionaries

"This isn't America, Mr. President," an audience member shouts during a talk show hosted by the nation's most popular radio personality. The show is in full swing and the audience is whipped into a frenzy. The host, a man of great political influence, has long been a champion of the cause of sexual freedom and equality.

The panelists, consisting of politicians, celebrities, and activists, are passionate in their support of the cause. "We must continue to fight for our rights," says one panelist. "We will not be silenced." The audience cheers and applause erupts.

Draft counselor here to help
parking perplexities

Frankly Speaking

by Phil Frank

parking spaces are a problem in the area of the BC parking lot, especially at 3:00 PM or 4:00 PM, when the students are leaving class. The problem seems to be exacerbated by the fact that the students are not parking in the correct places. If you look around, you will see many cars parked in the student parking lot, which is supposed to be for students only.

To make matters worse, the parking attendants are not doing their job properly. They are not stopping the cars that are parking in the wrong places, and they are not writing tickets. This is making the situation worse, and it is unfair to the students who are parking in the correct places.

The administration should take action to solve this problem. They should hire more parking attendants, and they should make sure that they are doing their job. They should also make sure that the students are aware of the parking rules.

P.S. I have a suggestion for a parking solution. Why don't we have a parking permit system? Each student could get a permit, and they would have to park in a designated area. This would make it easier for the parking attendants to enforce the rules.

Graduation ritual due for burial?

By Florence Perkins

The graduation ceremony at the University of California is a ritual that has been going on for many years. It is a tradition that has been passed down from generation to generation. However, I believe that the graduation ceremony should be reevaluated.

The graduation ceremony is a long and drawn-out event that takes place at the end of the school year. It is a time when students are supposed to celebrate their achievements, but it is also a time when they are waiting for their degrees to be conferred. This waiting period is too long, and it is detrimental to the students' mental health.

I suggest that the graduation ceremony be shortened. It should last for no more than two hours, and it should be held at the beginning of the school year. This way, students would not have to wait so long for their degrees to be conferred.

Letters to the Editor

John Donne

The article in the campus newspaper about the parking problem in the student parking lot was well written. However, I would like to add my two cents. The problem is not only with the parking attendants, but also with the students. Many students park in the wrong places, even though there are designated parking areas for them.

The administration should make sure that the students are aware of the parking rules. They should also enforce the rules more strictly. If students continue to park in the wrong places, they should be ticketed.

If the administration does not take action, I will take action. I will start a petition to change the parking rules. I believe that the students have a right to be treated fairly, and I will fight for our rights.

Express yourself

by Cathy Mason

Expressing yourself is a way of communicating your feelings and ideas. It is an important part of being human. However, expressing yourself is not always easy. There are many reasons why people may not feel comfortable expressing themselves.

One reason is fear of judgment. People may be afraid of what others will think of them if they express themselves. This fear can be debilitating, and it can prevent people from expressing themselves.

Another reason is fear of rejection. People may be afraid of being rejected if they express themselves. This fear can be paralyzing, and it can prevent people from expressing themselves.

In order to express yourself, you need to overcome these fears. You need to find the courage to say what you think and feel. This is not easy, but it is possible. You can do it.

Just People get together

Just People will be holding a social event on campus this weekend. It will be held in the Student Center, and it will be open to anyone who wants to come.

The event will be held on Saturday, June 25th, from 7:00 PM to 10:00 PM. There will be music, food, and drinks, and there will be a chance to meet new people.

I encourage you to come and join us. It will be a great opportunity to socialize and have fun.

Pepsi's got a lot to give

Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co. of Bakersfield

Pepsi has a lot to offer. They have many different flavors, and they are always coming out with new ones. I am a huge fan of Pepsi, and I always look forward to trying their new flavors.

One of my favorite Pepsi flavors is the Mountain Dew. It is a strong and refreshing flavor, and it is perfect for a hot summer day. I also love the Pepsi Max, which is a sugar-free version of the regular Pepsi. It is a great option for those who are watching their sugar intake.

Pepsi also has a great marketing campaign. They always have fun and creative ads, and they are always coming up with new ideas.

In short, Pepsi has a lot to offer. They have great flavors, a great campaign, and they always put out a product that is worth the money.

Basketball team
loses... again

Another loss for the BC Renegades basketball team doesn't really shake coach Bill Nielsen. "We’re just trying to build something here," he said. "The kids are getting better every game, and we’re still learning to play as a team."

John Gordon, who scored only 2 points in the game, had a team-high 11 rebounds, but the team had trouble getting shots to fall. "We just need to work on our shooting," Gordon said.

In the loss, the Renegades were out-rebounded 42-28 and out-scored 59-40.
