Labor initiative 'controversial'

By BETTE KEMPER

Precedents for the grassrootstype farm labor initiative, which has only been granted "the most controversial labor law to go before California voters in 14 years."

The measure, by which it was qualified to the November ballot by Sonata officials in the Secretary of State Edward G. Brown, is known as Proposition 22, "the worst news of election odds in the country."

It would be the measure which would create the state with the highest tax rate and the highest rate of tax collection, which is expected to exceed $306 million in 1974.

The measure, by which it was qualified, would pit 650 of all farm workers from the state's 13 counties against the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME), which has a membership of 1.2 million.

McGovern—change wouldn’t hurt

This man is the honest, and that's just what a lawyer wants. You can’t believe what was written on the front page of the local paper. I happen to know that he has been a lawyer for some time and that he is the current head of the local bar association. He is a highly respected member of the community and is well liked by all.

A king for homecoming?

The recent campaign that’s been held to select a new king for the homecoming parade was a great success. The contest was open to all students, and the winner would receive a crown and sash. The candidates were chosen by the Homecoming Committee, and the final decision was made by the judges, who were selected by the faculty and staff. The king will reign over the parade and will be a symbol of school pride.

Vote no on prop. 14

One of the biggest issues facing today is the school system in the United States. The proposed Proposition 14 would eliminate the state's system of public schools. This would lead to an increase in the cost of education, and the quality of education would suffer. In addition, the teachers would be forced to reduce their teaching time, which would affect the students' education. This is a major concern for all students and their families.

A need for elderly education

By RALPH NIELSON

The story of the elderly people has amazed us in the past few years. As we look at the problems facing today's society, we see the elderly as a group that is often left behind.

This is especially true when it comes to education. Many elderly people are not aware of the resources available to them, such as local community centers and classes. They may also be unaware of the importance of lifelong learning.

Some elderly people may feel that they are too old to learn new things. However, this is not true. The elderly have a wealth of knowledge and experience that can be shared with others.

We should make an effort to reach out to the elderly population and provide them with opportunities to learn and grow. This could include offering classes and workshops, as well as creating a community where the elderly feel welcome and supported.

Taylor, who starred at BC as a split end and was a standout performer, is now a running back for the Bruin football team. His speed and agility have made him a valuable asset to the team.

Taylor is quick to point out that he's not just another player. He's a leader, and he's determined to help the team win.

The aftermath of Fonda

Fonda: true grit

Two things stood out in the account I read of Fonda's story. First, the woman who was once a movie star is now a woman living a life of simplicity and frugality. Second, the image of Fonda as a strong, independent woman who has overcome adversity.

A male view on Jane

The image of Fonda as Jane was intriguing. It seems that Fonda was able to bring out the best in her character, and her portrayal was both compelling and realistic. The way she dealt with the challenges she faced was truly inspiring.

El Camino hosts upset-minded Renegade gridders

By MIKE BENO

The Renegades were disappointed in their bid to upset No. 2 ranked Pennsylvania 21-14. It was another ignoble loss that displayed great efforts by both teams, but it was the type of game that characterized the entire BC season. The Gauchos were good, but not quite good enough.

The sequel isn't over yet, but for a long time, the Renegades sought with the Gauchos' fast offense and dominating defense, the El Camino Renegades in a game that is more than just a regular season conference game. However, the 490 BC season took their Renegade offense to a new level. This time the Gauchos were scoring on the field, the defense was scoring as well. El Camino scored a TD on a field goal attempt.

Despite the fact that the Renegades scored first, the Gauchos pushed back for the regulation and pushed in two first downs before the bunch. Momentum changed in the second half as Pennsylvania scored twice while the Gauchos managed to drive only twice.
