EOPS counselor Zuniga uses 'complete open-door policy'

By Ralph Niesan

The Associated Student Body recently decreased its C stimulated budget, and the Associated Student Body is facing financial difficulties. However, EOPS counselor Zuniga uses a 'complete open-door policy' to aid students and help them achieve their educational goals.

Zuniga, who has been with the EOPS for over 21 years, believes in engaging students in their education and helping them make progress. He has worked closely with students to develop their academic and personal goals.

Zuniga is a former student at SF State and has taught at the university for many years. He is known for his dedication to helping students succeed.

EOPS, which stands for Equal Opportunity Program, offers services to students who are first-generation, low-income, or have disabilities. The program provides academic and personal support to help students achieve their goals.

Zuniga emphasizes the importance of open communication and encourages students to seek help when needed. He常说, "With EOPS, students are never alone."

EOPS is one of the most important programs at SF State, and Zuniga's dedication to helping students is a testament to the program's success. He is a great asset to the university and its students.

Fall term offers variety of classes

By Gary Clark

The Fall term offers a variety of classes to help students achieve their educational goals. The college offers a wide range of courses in different disciplines, including business, science, and arts.

Some of the classes offered include Introduction to Business, Microeconomics, Calculus, and Introduction to Computer Science. These classes provide students with a solid foundation in their chosen fields and help them prepare for future careers.

The college also offers a variety of extracurricular activities, including clubs, sports teams, and community service opportunities. These activities provide students with a chance to develop new skills and build a sense of community.

The Fall term is a great opportunity for students to explore new fields and pursue their interests. With a variety of courses and activities available, there is something for everyone at SF State.

Micro-film training program helps handicapped students

Bakersfield College has carried the burden of training handicapped students for many years. The college is now working on a new project to help students who are handicapped.

For students who are handicapped, Micro-film training is a way to provide employment and help students gain confidence. The program is designed to provide students with a skill set that is useful in the job market.

The program is funded by a grant from the state and is available to students who are enrolled in the college.

As editor of the "Opinion" section, I feel it is necessary for the student body to be aware of the policies and procedures of the campus. I believe that the student body should be informed of all the policies and procedures that are in place on campus, so that they can be held accountable for their actions. I also believe that the student body should be able to participate in the decision-making process of the policies and procedures that are in place. I think that this will help to ensure that the policies and procedures are fair and that they are in the best interest of the student body.

This is education?

The educational system is in need of serious study, and probably redrafting for that matter. Education at Bakersfield College and Bakersfield High does not exist, it merely is what it is. Education is supposed to be preparing students for the future, but what is being prepared?

Many students are passing through the system, unable to comprehend what is being taught. Many are apathetic. Many are just trying to get by without thinking about what they are doing. They don’t understand the importance of education, the value of learning, and the benefits it can bring. They are, in essence, just going through the motions, not truly understanding the material or the purpose of their education.

This is not to say that there are no good students or good teachers. There are undoubtedly some who are doing the best they can with what they have. But on the whole, the educational system is failing. The students are not prepared for the future, and the teachers are not doing their job.

SOCIAL SECURITY INEQUITY

Equal justice under the law

The concept of "equal justice under the law" is frequently ignored or forgotten. In order to truly achieve this, the social security system must be reformed. Social security is not meant to be a welfare system; it is supposed to provide a security net for people in need. But too often, it is used as a crutch by those who are not truly in need. This is inequitable and unfair.

Another aspect of the social security system that needs reform is the way it treats different groups of people. Women, for example, are often disadvantaged when it comes to social security benefits. They may have worked for many years, but may not receive the same benefits as men because they did not earn as much. This is unfair and unjust.

The social security system also needs to be more accessible to those who need it. Too often, it is difficult for people who are not well-off to navigate the system and receive the benefits they are entitled to. This can be frustrating and stressful, and it can prevent people from getting the help they need.

In conclusion, the social security system is in need of reform. It must be made more equitable, and it must be more accessible to those who need it. Only then can we truly achieve the goal of "equal justice under the law."
Desire, determination; spells Doug Anglen

By ROGER CIOK

Desire and determination are the hallmarks of Doug Anglen, the 24-year-old vice president of the California Federated Trades Council, which is fighting Proposition 14 in California. Anglen is a member of the California AFL-CIO, which supports Proposition 14.

Anglen was born in Long Beach, Calif., and grew up in Los Angeles. He attended Santa Monica College and then transferred to the University of California at Los Angeles, where he majored in political science. After graduation, he worked as a labor organizer for the AFL-CIO and then joined the Communist Party of the United States.

Anglen is a member of the Communist Party of the United States and has been active in the party for the past 10 years. He is also a member of the Democratic Socialists of America and the Socialist Party of America.

Anglen is a strong supporter of Proposition 14 and believes that it is necessary to improve the working conditions of California's workers.

Proposition 14: Watson takes the initiative

The bridge built to serve the people in need regarding Proposition 14 is a very important one in the history of the city. After building the supposed bridge, the last bridge built in the city was the bridge to serve the people in need regarding Proposition 14.

During the debate on Proposition 14, Watson, the candidate for mayor, expressed his support for the initiative, stating that it was crucial for the welfare of the city. Watson's position was backed by a strong majority of the voters, who believed that the initiative would bring about the changes needed to address the pressing issues facing the city.

Watson's initiative was a response to the growing frustration among the citizens, who had been feeling the effects of economic downturns and rising costs of living. The initiative aimed to provide solutions to these problems, and the city had voted in favor of it.

Watson's leadership in the campaign was widely praised, with many commending his ability to connect with the voters and his clear vision for the future of the city. The success of the initiative underscored the importance of strong leadership in addressing the needs of the community.

Another typical day

A fairly normal day happened in my morning schedule. I went to school. I got breakfast. I listened to some music on my way to class. I met some friends in the library, where we studied for an upcoming test. Later, I went to a class where we discussed current literature, and after that, I worked on my homework.

Pentagon practices probed

One day last winter, while trying to catch a cold from a friend, I had to catch a train. The train was called The Pentagon to Clark D. Wheelock, and I was the only one on the train. As I was heading to the station, I noticed a group of military personnel boarding the train. I felt quite aware of their presence, and I wondered what they were doing there.
