The Jarvis Initiative has clarified some points about its proposal for property tax reform. The initiative does not seem defensible according to reasonable analysis and has accumulated increases in voter support. However, the reaction to the current approach has been positive. It claims that it has been the result of two years of work and has been supported by lawyers, academics, and voters. When a recent poll showed that 57 percent of those surveyed favored the measure, the initiative claims that it was being misunderstood and that more education is needed. The initiative is working on ways to educate voters about its proposals and is encouraging people to vote in the upcoming election. The initiative is opposed by some who claim that it will lead to higher taxes and diminished public services. However, the initiative's supporters argue that it will lead to lower taxes and increased public services. The initiative is currently working on ways to educate voters about its proposals and is encouraging people to vote in the upcoming election.
Provision for review in probation; suspension procedure

The administration was forced to Richard Wright's, dean of admissions and records, and with the policy development of the last year's academic scandal, a new policy was drawn up, to which the administration was forced to satisfy the needs of the students. The new policy now states that probation or suspension is given to students who have been found to have violated the policy of the institution. The new policy is to be effective as of the beginning of the fall semester.

The new policy states that students who have been found to have violated the policy of the institution will be placed on probation or suspension, as determined by the administration. The students will be notified of their status in writing, and will be given the opportunity to appeal the decision. If the appeal is denied, the students will be given the opportunity to appeal to the Appeals Committee. The Appeals Committee will hear the appeal and make a determination, which will be final.

Students on probation should get act in order to avoid suspension

For the third year in a row, the administration has announced that students who are on probation or suspension will be given the opportunity to appeal the decision. The students will be notified of their status in writing, and will be given the opportunity to appeal the decision. If the appeal is denied, the students will be given the opportunity to appeal to the Appeals Committee. The Appeals Committee will hear the appeal and make a determination, which will be final.

'Iron-Five' hit top despite odds, dribble 'gold' home

By BOB WARD

The San Jose State Rams had their hands full on the road last week when they met the UCLA Bruins. The Rams had to work hard to come away with a win, but in the end, they did it.

The Bruins were led by their star player, John Smith, who scored 25 points in the game. However, the Rams were able to hold him in check with their defense, which was key to their success.

The game was a tight one, with both teams fighting hard to come out on top. In the end, the Rams emerged victorious, winning the game 78-70. This was a huge win for the Rams, who were looking to improve their record.

The Rams' head coach, Mike Johnson, was thrilled with the win. "We knew it was going to be a tough game," he said. "But we played well defensively and were able to come out on top. It was a great win for us."

The Rams will now turn their attention to their next game, which is against the University of California. They are hoping to continue their winning streak and move up in the rankings.

Planets spark kids' imagination

Kirchner plays 'jack-of-all-trades' with planetary presentation

Ges Whirl

Kirchner explains that the night sky is filled with wonders of the universe. He tells the group that the planets are unique "Zapp!" and the night sky contains millions of tiny "moons," some no larger than a penny. The planetarium is all about the planets and the universe, and the lights, music, and the use of special effects make the presentation so special. The group is captivated by the wonders of the universe and the beauty of the planets. They leave the planetarium with a new appreciation for the mysteries of the universe and a desire to learn more about space.
Baseballers' record falls to 4-1; Coach Lango remains confident

Phinney played his best, has no fears

Phinney, who was one of few to call the shots in the 106s' last game, believes that his team is ready for the next challenge. He says, "I've been in baseball for a long time and I've seen it all. I know this game, I know the players, I know the coaches, and I know the fans. I know what it takes to win a game, and I know what it takes to win a season."

Phinney and his team are looking forward to their next game, which is scheduled for the upcoming weekend. He says, "We're ready to go, we're ready to win, and we're ready to show the world what we can do."

South American safari scheduled for August

South America is home to some of the most beautiful wildlife in the world. It is also home to some of the most dangerous. This year, the 106s are planning a safari to some of the most remote and dangerous areas of South America. The safari is scheduled for August and will include stops in Brazil, Argentina, and Chile. The team will be led by their own head coach, and they will be accompanied by a team of experts in the field of wildlife conservation.

Tracklayers trample LA Valley, East LA

By BETH GIBBON

LA Valley has stunned East LA today with a 3-2 victory at the LA Valley High School. The game was neck and neck from the start, with both teams displaying their skills and determination.

East LA was leading at half time, but LA Valley came back strong in the second half to secure their victory. LA Valley has been in strong form lately and has been making progress in their previous games.

Coach Andy Moore commented, "We are very pleased with the performance of our team today. They showed great determination and teamwork to secure the victory. We are looking forward to the upcoming games and are confident in our abilities to continue our winning streak."
Space shuttle has economic, scientific justifications for use

By William E体育场

The decision whether to continue or discontinue the development of the space shuttle must be made in the light of its overall economics. To do otherwise is to undermine the primary justification for this tremendous outlay of public resources.

While it is true that the space shuttle is a very expensive single-use system, it is also true that each flight is cheaper than the alternative of using expendable launch vehicles. Each space shuttle operation costs about $200 million, while each Delta II launch costs about $150 million. Since the shuttle can carry a larger payload than the Delta II, it is actually cheaper per pound of payload launched.

Furthermore, the space shuttle is a versatile vehicle that can be used for a wide range of missions, from scientific research to military applications. It is also a demonstration of American engineering prowess and a source of national pride.

In conclusion, the space shuttle is an important component of our national space program and should continue to be developed and used.

Terry Sproul sees silent weekend practical experience for signers

By FIONA FROST
Terry Sproul, BC special education instructor, is planning another "silent weekend" for his deaf students to experience some of the advantages of the deaf community. The "silent weekend" is planned for the students to experience the Deaf culture and language and to give them an opportunity to observe how the deaf community functions. The goal is to increase the students' awareness of the deaf world and to help them understand the value of the deaf culture. The students will have the opportunity to observe how the deaf community functions, to experience the Deaf culture and language, and to increase their awareness of the deaf world. The students will be shown deaf signs and language, and they will be given an opportunity to practice using them.

If BC did as well as the higher teams they probably would-...as Delgado led off with a surprising 372. Following were three 76s by Craig Gately, Joe Burgundy and Bob Scally and Dave Borey's 79 and Larry Cook's 83. Scoring next Monday, each consecutive Monday will feature first the Conference tournament at Santa Maria, then Southern Cal meet at the Goodrich Country Club in San Diego and finally the State Tournament in Monterey on Oct 29th for three teams. Each team will play 7 a.m. and instead of 18 total 18 holes, 54 holes will be played by the qualifiers.
