For the third straight year, there was a reasonable increase in student enrollment. In the fall of 1974, female student enrollment decreased by 8.3 percent, whereas male student enrollment increased by 2.3 percent. Female students at Bakersfield College now account for 53.3 percent of all students.

The BC President, Dr. John Collins, emphasizes that the problem is not a matter of space but one of attitude. He stresses, "Currently the bottom of the Abalone Building is used as a dirt floor with adequate space and equipment needed for the proposed center. But with the passage of Proposition 9, the money which might be available for this particular project could be too late. The state is unable to finance such a "bump-up," Collins points out.

The Federal Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (HEW) accepts a proposal for the project, but no money can be used for it until the next academic year.

Placement tests slated for Dec. 30, 31

Bakersfield College has scheduled two days in December for placement tests. The tests will be given Tuesday, Dec. 30, and Thursday, Dec. 31, according to BC. (The College has previously announced the dates in the news media.) Placement tests are available in the BC Student Success Center.

The placement test is not a competitive test and is not used to establish students from entering the college. Career emphasis is used only as a tool to help determine placement insuring BC students in course levels equal to their abilities.

Dr. Richard Wright, dean of admissions and records, suggests the increased number of students attending the college along with the substantial increase in the number of students and faculty members, explains why the enrollment at Bakersfield College has increased 7.3 percent over the fall, 1976, enrollment. This past fall, enrollment in graded classes increased 6.6 percent from 11,311 to 11,853. Enrollment for both graduate and upgraded classes also increased 3.4 percent, from 11,759 to 12,250, (resident scholarships reveal.

For the third straight year, there are more female students than male students attending BC. Female enrollment increased by 6.7 percent, whereas male student enrollment increased only 2.3 percent. Female enrollment constitutes 53.3 percent of all the students attending BC.

Full-time enrollment registered a decline of 1.2 percent in fall, 1979, but the enrollment of part-time students (less than 12 units) increased by 8.3 percent. Part-time student make up 72.4 percent of the BC enrollment, he highest in the history of the college.

Day enrollment showed a slight increase of 2 percent and evening enrollment dramatically increased by 9.9 percent. Enrollments for the fall semester account for 53.3 percent of all the students.

Placement enrollment dramatically increased by 10 percent. Evening enrollment outnumbers day enrollment by 8.3 percent.

Health concerns focus on women's course

BY JANINE BERRY

Kathy is determined to change the course her life has taken so far. She wants a fresh start, and she's willing to work hard to make it happen. Kathy is considering going back to school to pursue a degree in healthcare, and she's researching different programs to see which one would be the best fit for her needs. She's been looking into community colleges and universities, and she's interested in programs that offer flexible scheduling and online options. Kathy is also considering joining a support group for people who are going through similar life changes.

Starlight kids tryout for 'Gypsy' scheduled

New Starlight members will be selected in December for the 1979 production of "Gypsy," the musical based on the novel by Betty Comden and Adolph Green. The play, with music by Jule Styne, was a hit on Broadway in 1958 and has been revived many times since. Kathy Colter, the director of the Starlight Children's Theatre, is looking for young performers who can sing, dance, and act. She is particularly interested in finding girls who can play the role of Gypsy Rose Lee, the raunchy showgirl. Kathy is interested in hearing from girls who are interested in attending the tryouts and who can give a brief performance of a song and dance.

Working as disc jockey provides unusual nighttime job for versatile radio student

BY GREG GOODSELL

Radio after midnight can be a difficult task. That's why Tony Reed, a junior at Bakersfield College, decided to pursue a career in radio during his college years. Tony has been working at various radio stations since he was a teenager, and he's now a regular on the local dial. Tony's job involves playing a wide variety of music, from rock and roll to classical, and he's always looking for new ways to entertain his listeners. He's particularly interested in finding new artists and promoting their music, and he's always on the lookout for new angles to approach the genre.

CIC opens job opportunities

The California Community Colleges Board of Trustees has approved the creation of a new series of job opportunities at its community colleges. The newly created positions will focus on student success, including programs designed to improve graduation rates and increase student retention. The new jobs will be filled by current employees and will be available to members of the public who meet the qualifications.

The new positions are intended to support the college's efforts to increase access to higher education, particularly for students who face significant barriers to success. The college is committed to providing opportunities for all students to pursue their goals, regardless of their background or circumstances.

The new positions will be available at all of the college's campuses, and they will be filled through an open recruitment process. Interested applicants are encouraged to apply.

ASB managing Huddle; large profits expected

By MARIA MAGOLANDI

ASB has taken over the operation of the Huddle, the shop, which began only 8 months ago.

"The only change that the Huddle has undergone has been the addition of black pants," said ASB President Mike Thompson.

"Our main objective is to make the Huddle more appealing to the students," Thompson said.

According to Thompson, ASB is currently running the Huddle and the profits are going to the club funds.

For more information, contact ASB at ext. 1675 or ask Mike Thompson.

Student art show, sale successful

ARTS ON SALE is the title of Mary Parker, along with Annette Leclerc’s exhibition. The art was available to the students and faculty at the Fine Arts conference last week. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the students and faculty in the Fine Arts department. Mary Parker, an art professor, was also in charge of the event.

James Scott faces 30 years; probably won't serve them

By STAFF WRITER

Picture this. He's holding up the winning banner, the one he's been carrying around for months. The victory is his, and so are the crowds of people cheering him on. He's happy, but he's not the only one. The ASB advisor and Ray Chavez, assistant director of student affairs, are happy as well. Chavez says the award is a well-deserved recognition of the hard work Scott has put into his job.

When asked about the award, Scott said, "I'm just glad the ASB members and the administration recognized the hard work I've put into my job. I'm looking forward to the future and the opportunities it may bring." Scott's dedication to his job is evident in the way he handled the award.

Black Cultural Center to sponsor mini sports clinic for youngsters

By STAFF WRITER

While many people may be surprised to learn that the Black Cultural Center is sponsoring a mini sports clinic for youngsters, the idea is actually a great way for the community to get involved.

The center's goal is to provide an opportunity for young people to learn about sports and to develop a sense of community.

The clinic will be held on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., and will be open to all young people in the area.

For more information, call the center at 555-5555.

These gifts not your normal Christmas fare

The unique...

There's one on everybody's list. That person who seems to have one of everything, making Christmas shopping seem like a search for the Holy Grail.

All is not lost, however, as Bakersfield merchants are rising to the challenge of the hard-to-buy-for person in everyone's life. Topping the list of gifts for the hard-to-buy-for—believe it or not—a flying insect.

Or at least, a pendant shaped like a flying insect—or to be more exact, a dragon fly. The Pendant at Polacheck's Jewelers in Valley Plaza, is an estate piece and is on display in one of the front cases.

So what's unique about a piece of jewelry?
The Dragon Fly pendant is made of platinum and 14 karat yellow gold and is detailed by a mere 133 diamonds. All this and it can be had for the paltry sum of $20,000. As Polacheck's says on the card in the display case: "For the Lady who has everything".

What type of person purchases a $20,000 dragon fly pendant?
"The same type of person that bought it in the first place," explains Don Taylor, who works as the diamond and fine jewelry consultant for Polacheck's. "Someone who wants something different—a show piece."

If the dragon fly isn't quite to your taste, Polachek's has an alternative for the jewelry estate piece and is on display in one of the front sections of the store.

For the person who's on the road a lot, a Hazard Light, offered by Brocks Automatic, is covered to prove the uncommon. The light, which flashes yellow and red to help direct traffic in case of an emergency, is covered with leather and is priced at $38.

Not all the unusual gifts are that expensive, however. Some of the better possibilities for gifts under $100.

And speaking of "under", what could be better for the adventurous type on your list than "Underwear that's funtastic"?

An offshoot (or should that be off short) from the recent T-shirt craze, "Underwear that's funtastic" are men's and ladies' briefs with sayings printed on the front. Made by British Bulldog Incorporated, "Underwear that's funtastic" are priced around $6 and are available at Imports International in the Valley Plaza.

For the junk food junkie on the first, why not a Soap Burger? Soap Burgers are made by Colossus and consist of three bars of soap, two shaped like buns and the third shaped like a patty of hamburger meat. Two Terry washcloths—one as cheese—the other as lettuce—serve as garnishes.

But a hamburger just isn't complete without french fries. Knowing this, Imports International, which stocks the Soap Burger, also carries Soquepese French Fries. Priced around $5 and $4 respectively, the soaps make a $9 inedible meal.

For the person who's on the road a lot, a flashlight is always a practical investment. Priced, however, isn't the way to describe the Road Hazard Light, offered by Brocks for the Christmas season.

The light, which flashes yellow and red to help direct traffic, can be obtained at a focal road store that decided to shun the free publicity. Also available at the same shop store is the "Dater's Guide to Weight Loss During the Festive Season" by Richard Smith and a dozen other fun items available at Imports International.

So what's unique about a piece of jewelry?
The Dragon Fly pendant is made of platinum and 14 karat yellow gold and is detailed by a mere 133 diamonds. All this and it can be had for the paltry sum of $20,000. As Polacheck's says on the card in the display case: "For the Lady who has everything".

What type of person purchases a $20,000 dragon fly pendant?
"The same type of person that bought it in the first place," explains Don Taylor, who works as the diamond and fine jewelry consultant for Polacheck's. "Someone who wants something different—a show piece."

If the dragon fly isn't quite to your taste, Polachek's has an alternative for the jewelry estate piece and is on display in one of the front cases.

All is not lost, however, as Bakersfield merchants are rising to the challenge of the hard-to-buy-for person in everyone's list. That person who seems to have everything.
