When the dust settled, Bakersfield College was better than expected after final budget cut was made, said Dr. Rick Wright, BC president.

"When we announced the budget cuts, it was because the legislature would not fund Prop 98, and mandated," he said. "Prop 98 was not the umbrella that saved us... it saved about $1 billion for school kids." It wasn't. When announced, it would have meant layoffs in classified staff members, said Wright. "Of the part-time and some classified personnel would have been laid off," he said. "It would have been a huge impact, but then the legislature said it would not do that."

The final budget for BC in 1991 was $56,100,000 and the final budget for the 1991-92 year is $57,149,000. He said the Kern Community College District was saving 35 percent in spending funds and although the numbers look bigger in the final budget, a rise will not necessarily stop layoffs under BC budget, Wright said.

Wright said BC had our appropriation, $500,000 from the budget to meet faculty and classified staff members and another $450,000 to meet the employment needs of the employees of the school, including the maintenance, library and classified staff, said Wright.

"Even though we ended up with more money than last year, we also ended up with more costs," he said. "It was a very difficult year. We had to do everything we could to maintain the same things such as dental insur-

As for the umbrella project Prop 98, in 1998, said the Kern County Board of Trade, is a major release.

The umbrella project will be open and available to the people. Visitors will be able to walk in and view the different handmade umbrellas that will be displayed in the Kern County Board of Trade, 125, according to Bakersfield College.

One volunteer who was interviewed Tuesday said, "It was a very difficult year. We had to do everything we could to maintain the same thing."

CHRISTO: Two-continent project unveiled in October

Confused about Fig. 21.

"This is an outdoor event," he said. "It is an outdoor event and the sculpture will be installed on the campus grounds.""And then we're going to unveil it on Oct. 10," she said.

John Bentley, director of Barn Bani, said, "A lot of our students are interested in the idea of being outdoors and creating something with their hands."

"We're excited to have this project come to campus," he said. "It will bring a lot of attention to our school and give our students a chance to show off their skills."
Abortion gag rule silences free speech

Staff Editorial

The abortion "gag rule" will lead to less health care for poor women.

Lies-insane nonsense, who are so easily misled, will be used by the new rule. While proponents of the new rule claim that women would seek services anyway, the abortion "gag rule" will very likely stop women from seeking services, because the rule states that health-care providers can refuse to provide information that is not medical in nature, and the provider can be financially compensated for doing so.

The new rule will also be a major setback for the use of public funds. The center will be forced to deny services to women who need them, and those women will be forced to provide their own medical care, which will cost them more money.

U.S. apathetic toward failed coup attempt in Soviet Union

Staff Editorial

The failed coup attempt in the Soviet Union was a significant event in world politics. The coup was led by a group of hardline communists who tried to overthrow the government of Mikhail Gorbachev. The attempt failed, but it had far-reaching consequences.

The coup attempt was a response to the problems facing the Soviet Union, including economic woes and political repression. The hardliners believed that the reforms of Gorbachev were too liberal and that the country was moving too quickly towards democracy.

The failure of the coup had a number of implications. It was a blow to the reputation of the hardline communists, who had been seen as a credible alternative to Gorbachev. It also further weakened the position of the Soviet Union on the world stage, as many countries were concerned about the possibility of a renewed Cold War.

In addition, the failure of the coup led to a period of uncertainty and instability in the Soviet Union. The country was still in the process of transitioning to a market economy and democracy, and the failure of the coup threatened to set the country back.

BC goes 4-0 in '91 Soccerfest

By Sonia Souza

Coach Bob Lotts was one of the organizers of the 1991 Soccerfest, a tournament that brought together teams from around the region. The event was held at the BC soccer field, and it featured a total of 16 teams, including local collegiate, club, and recreational sides.

The tournament was a success, with a large number of participants and spectators. The BC soccer field was the main venue, but there were also games played at other locations around the city.

The primary sponsors of the event were local businesses, including Adidas, Nike, and Puma. These companies provided a range of products, from soccer balls to jerseys, to support the tournament.

The tournament was well-attended, with thousands of people coming to watch the games. The BC field was filled to capacity, and there was a great atmosphere of friendly competition.

The tournament was a great success, and it helped to promote soccer in the community. It also helped to showcase the talent of local players and teams, and it provided a platform for them to compete on a larger stage.

Community awaits Christo unveiling

Gala hit despite late appearance

By Chris Reyes

The Christo unveiling event was scheduled for September 30th, but due to some unexpected delays, it was postponed until the following day. The event was held on the BC campus, and it was attended by thousands of people.

The Christo sculpture was enthusiastically greeted by the attendees, who were dressed in their finest attire. The event was a huge success, and it exceeded all expectations.

The Christo unveiling was a massive event, with music, food, and entertainment. There were also speeches and presentations, which highlighted the importance of the sculpture and its impact on the community.

Umbrellas may rain profits on Kern

By Anthony Davis

The Kern County Fair is known for its vibrant atmosphere, with a mix of agricultural displays, entertainment, and food stands. This year, however, the fair organizers are facing some challenges due to the recent rainfall.

The Kern County Fair is scheduled to run from October 1st to 10th, but the recent rain has caused some concern among the organizers. They are worried that the wet conditions may affect the quality of the agricultural displays.

The Kern County Fair is one of the largest and most popular events in the county, attracting thousands of visitors each year. The fair organizers are hoping that the rain will pass quickly, and that the fair will proceed as planned.

Students lose some parking to staff, visitors

By Jamie Lape

The BC parking area is undergoing some changes, with new signs and restrictions to accommodate the needs of staff and visitors. The changes are designed to ensure that the parking area is safe and accessible for all.

The new signs are clearly visible and provide clear instructions for parking. They are located at the entrance to the parking area, and they provide information about the available spaces.

The parking area is divided into different sections, with specific areas designated for staff, students, and visitors. The staff area is located closest to the main entrance, while the student area is further away.

The new restrictions are designed to ensure that the parking area is safe and accessible for all. They are based on the needs of the different groups, and they are designed to prioritize the needs of staff and visitors.

The changes are part of ongoing efforts to improve the parking area, and to ensure that it is safe and accessible for all. The BC parking area is an integral part of the campus, and it plays a crucial role in the smooth operation of the institution.

Ouch!
Renegades suffer painful 48-14 loss

By David Patterson
Rip staff writer

The No. 11 nationally ranked Oklahoma Sooners dealt the 9-0-1
Renegades their first loss of the season.

Oklahoma used a balanced offense to overcome the Renegades and win 48-14 at Autzen Stadium.

The Sooners scored early and often, putting the game out of reaching distance for the Renegades.

Men's soccer cut despite team's success

By Elliot M. Rodriguez
Sports Writer

Despite a winning season and coach's success, the Bakersfield College soccer program has been cut.

The decision was made in May to cut the program and save $25,000.

The program was started in 1985 and had a successful history, with several players going on to play professionally.

Men's soccer was not cut and that team has begun games.

The BC women's soccer program was not cut and that team has begun games.

Men's soccer team ended last season in state playoffs.

By David Patterson

The BC men's soccer team ended last season in the state playoffs.

They were unsuccessful in their 1-0-1 season against the University of Southern California and the University of Southern California-University.

The team lost 1-0 to Southern California and tied 1-1 with Southern California-University.

The coach of the BC men's soccer team was coach Mark Joslin.

He said that the team had a good season and was pleased with how they performed.

The team had a 12-1-1 record and was ranked No. 2 in the state.

The team played against some of the best teams in the state and performed well.

The coach was disappointed with the season but felt that the team had a good season.

The BC men's soccer team will be back next season.
