Valerie Armas, the director of the radio station "KBCC," said a good year; but no one on campus is going to feel the effects of that.

"We had a pretty good year," Armas said.

But Armas said that the station is still facing the uncertainty of state's budget for next year, as well as the uncertainty of their position in the college's budget.

"The state's budget for next year is still up in the air," Armas said.

She said that the station is hoping for a stable budget for next year, and that they are working with the administration to ensure that the station has a secure future.

"We're working hard to ensure that the station has a stable budget," Armas said.

Yes, a robotics class at Buena Park High School is on fire.

"We have students who are now making robots," said Time Miller, a teacher at the school.

"They're doing projects, and they're not excited," he said. "They're really excited now, and they're not gonna stop," he said.

The class is a part of the Advanced Placement program, which prepares students for college-level work.

Miller said he hopes to have a robotics team that competes at national and international levels.

BC should detail ‘Spring Jam’ security plan

Security plans for the concert is as important as which bands are going to be there.

Some of the security measures will include full body scanners, metal detectors, and bag checks. Attendees will be required to pass through these checkpoints before entering the concert.

Police officers will be present throughout the venue, and will be able to respond quickly to any incidents that may occur.

BC has also implemented a strict alcohol policy, with no alcohol allowed to be brought into the venue.

For more information on the security plans, visit the BC website or contact the BC security department.

Decathletes’ season comes to a close after tough outing

By Andrew McNeill
Bip and well

For the first time Bakersfield College’s decathletes were both in the top 10 at a meet.
Paul Mantz, competing in the decathlon, finished seventh, while John Adams placed at 11th.

“Decathlon is a very hard and grueling sport,” said John Adams. “I was excited to finally be back at a meet after missing the last one due to injury.”

Decathlon is made up of ten events, with points being awarded based on performance in each.

“The decathlon is a true test of athletic ability,” said Mantz. “You have to be strong in all ten events to do well.”
