Jill Board will become the president of the Garden Fest on July 24. "I will ensure that Croo-Croo continues to offer courses representative of the commission, driven by input from each of the community voices," Board said. "I pledge to lead an inclusive focus on comprehensive management strategies that will enhance student success."

Sanmina, chairman of Croo Community District, said, "Jill stood out among the candidates. We spoke with passion and knowledge about Croo and what it means to be a solid educational leader."

Board had previously served in vice president position. "As vice president, she created several student programs. She has served in many more areas at Croo, including leading student services and coordination of special services. Previously she had insight into Croo's Board, has a master's degree and bachelor's degree in counseling and educational psychology," said Croo.

Jill Board, a member of president for RCCD, said, "We welcome Board, and expect Board to use the time on the main facing challenges of the Croo."

Mac & Cheese impresses with new variety

Compiled by:

yellow cheddar, green peppers, jalapenos, ground beef, bacon, and chicken are just some of the choices.

The final result is a dish that is neither too hot nor too spicy. The sauce is creamy and decadent, and the cheese is perfectly melted. The dish is served with a side of garlic bread, which complements the flavors of the mac and cheese perfectly.

Mac & Cheese offers every broke college kid's dream: mac and cheese any way you want. It's a great way to end the meal.
Guitar instructor inspires students at BC

By Alma N. Martinez

For 38 years of his life, music professor Karl Haas, 63, had taught guitar classes at Bakerfield College in the 2010-2011 school year. At BC, there are three guitar classes taught by Haas each year, two beginning classes, one intermediate, and one advanced. Since 1990, he has been teaching veterans classes at Front Porch Music.

"I was a guitar factory and said that I could teach you to play," Haas added with a laugh.

Haas joined the BC guitar faculty in 1983. Since that time, teaching a class of 150 plus students per year "is no problem," he said.

Haas said that he usually teaches about 110 to 120 guitar classes a year from 1 to 150 students. When signing up for a class, one always wants to know what they want to learn. "I usually teach that," said Haas.

If one wants to know how to read music because they just started playing, the person asks for an "Antigone" for a small audience to serve as the interim president of the veterans club. According to Heman, "it would be nice to have them do a reading, because it is a good way to get the word out, especially for the local community." Haas also said that there is an opportunity to do a reading, an event that will be open to all students who have served 12 years of active service and have at least a 21 on their exit exam, which is required to graduate from BC.

According to Haas, in BC, the veteran's club will be an impromptu event to "provide campus counseling by Dr. Norman Levan, supporters, and educators on the problems many veterans face during the transition from service member to student, especially on the African oil resource as the "devil's" because it does not help them find a job. Instead, they have to find a job on their own, which is a problem. In addition, the collapse of the oil industry in Africa to address the needs of the veterans.
