American Sign Language Associate of Arts Degree

The major in American Sign Language provides a linguistic exploration of the various components of ASL and an in-depth examination of the culture of deaf people. The objective of the program is to provide students with a foundation for achieving fluency and the opportunity to transfer to a four-year institution. With additional training, employment opportunities include interpreting, teaching, and social service. If transferring to an institution other than UC or CSU, students should check with the receiving institution to ensure transferability of ASL courses as foreign language credit.

The AA degree is designed to provide students with multiple career pathways including interpreting, social services, and teaching, among others.

Program Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion, the student will:

- communicate clearly and effectively in ASL, expressing and recognizing specific manual and non-manual language elements.
- share critical insight into the nature of language and culture through continued participation in the deaf community.
- Employ video technology for self-, peer-, and mentor-feedback for ongoing skills development, assessment, and communication.
- produce college level American Sign Language and English texts demonstrating knowledge of, and critical inquiry into, key concepts or issues in American Sign Language, the Deaf Community, and Deaf Culture.
